WASHINGTON, May 25, 1868.

SENATE.

Mr. MORTON presented a petition of seventy-nine steamboat captains and two hundred merchants and manufacturers of Pittsburgh, setting forth that the bridge at Steubenville was a great obstruction to navigation, and praying that no more bridges be erected of less than five hundred feet span over the channel. Referred.

Mr. SHERMAN presented a petition of citizens of Ohio of the same import.

Mr. COLE introduced a bill to aid the construction of a railroad from San Francisco to Humboldt Bay. Referred.

Mr. RAMSEY moved to reconsider the vote by which a bill to construct a bridge across the Ohio river was, at the last meeting of the Senate, referred to the Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads, with instructions to report a general bill requiring all bridges henceforth erected on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers to have five hundred feet spans. He pointed out that the Committee had heretofore fully considered the subject, in connection with bills to bridge the Mississippi, and had applied to the War Department for information, the result of their investigations being that spans of three hundred feet would be ample and was all that was asked for by the navigation interest at that time. He said that the railroad and navigation interests are antagonistic, and some compromise must be agreed on.

Mr. MORTON produced further evidence in regard to the injury to navigation from the bridge at Steubenville. The increased cost of a bridge of five hundred feet span would be a trifle compared to the continuous loss to commerce from those obstructions. He moved that all bills on the subject of bridging the Ohio be referred to the Committee with the same instructions. Agreed to.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. SCOFIELD, from the Committee on Elections, made a report, concluding with a resolution that Geo. W. Morgan was not entitled to a seat in the House of Representatives from the 13th Congressional District of Ohio, but that Columbus Delano is entitled to a seat.

Mr. KERR, from the minority, gave notice of a report in favor of the sitting member, Mr. Morgan.

Mr. SCHENCK gave notice that he should on Wednesday next report back the internal tax bill and ask the House to consider it on Thursday, and from day to day until disposed of. The Committee would offer no material amendments and afford every one ample opportunity to offer and explain amendments.

After some discussion, on Mr. Schenck's motion, the first reading of the bill was dispensed with.

Mr. BUTLER, from Impeachment Managers, made a report to the effect that Charles W. Woolley had baffled in part their investigation by contumacy, evasion and avoidance, sitting upon his ipsi dixit as to the materiality of the questions propounded to him. They ask the House to visit upon him severe and exemplary punishment for contempt.

Mr. BUTLER moved the previous question on the adoption of the resolution.

The resolution was disagreed to and went over till to-morrow.

IMPEACHMENT CORRUPTION.

Report of the Managers—Contumacious Witness—His Punishment Asked For.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 25, 1868.

The Committee of Managers, acting under authority of a resolution of the House of Representatives, of the 16th of May, inst., —that, for the further and more efficient prosecution of the impeachment of the President, the Managers be directed and instructed to summon and examine witnesses under oath, to send for persons and papers, to employ a stenographer, and to appoint sub-committees to take testimony, the expenses thereof to be paid from the contingent fund of the House,—have attended to their duties, so far as they have been able because of matters hereinafter stated, and ask leave to report, in part, as follows:

In pursuance of the resolution having appointed a sub-Committee, of which Mr. Butler was the first named, to take testimony, Charles W. Woolley, of Cincinnati, Ohio, appeared before the Committee on Tuesday, the 19th day of May, in answer to its subpœna. After various objections on his part, and an admitted attempt to avoid, Woolley was examined by the sub-Committee, with some very considerable delay, because of his refusal to answer some questions, his evasions of others and interposition of claimed rights and privileges, which he attempted to sustain by argument until the time of the session was exhausted for the day. During that day Woolley did not finally refuse to answer any of the questions the Committee put to him. He was ordered to appear before the Committee again at half-past ten o'clock on the morning of the next day, the 20th, for further examination. He did not appear, however, until after one o'clock, and after the House had adjourned to Saturday, the 23d, and thence, without further business, till Monday. After that adjournment he could not be brought before the House for contempt in refusing to answer until now. At the second appearance of Woolley before the Committee, a majority of the Managers being present, Mr. Boutwell was chosen chairman pro tem during the absence of Mr. Bingham. The examination then being about to be continued before the whole Committee, an oath was again administered to him by the chairman and the inquiry attempted to be proceeded with. After being asked whether upon reflection he desired to change or alter anything in his testimony given yesterday, Wooley declared that he did not consider he was under oath the day before, or that he had given any testimony whatever. He was then asked if what he had stated to the Committee yesterday was true, to which he declined to answer, alleging, in substance, that the oath administered by the Chairman of the Sub-Committee was not binding. He was thereupon asked what disposition he had made of the sum of $20,000 or $25,000, or thereabouts, which had been referred to in his testimony the day before, and which the committee had reason to believe had been raised for the purpose of corruptly influencing the trial of the President. To this he refused to answer. To every question which would tend to show where the money was obtained, the purpose for which it was obtained, by whom it was furnished, in what manner it was used and to whom it was paid, he declined to answer, alleging only that it was not deposited with him or used for any purpose connected with the impeachment of the President, and that he would answer no such question whatever in any way but by declaring it had nothing to do with the impeachment of the President, when in his (the witness') own judgment it was not material to the investigation. It was obvious to the Committee that if this course was a proper one, there was an end to all investigation, because every witness could make the same answer. No case dependent upon circumstances or detached facts, to be made out by different witnesses, could under such an admitted claim of rights be ever successfully prosecuted. The Committee were, therefore, obliged to stop the investigation at that point upon most of the matters material to be inquired of the witness; but as the House was not present, and the witness by not appearing and objecting until after the House had adjourned, which the Committee believe was a contrivance on his part that he might not be held for contempt, and as portions of the investigation might be much embarrassed if his examination went no further, the Committee, unwilling to lose any time, proceeded to examine the witness further as to the genuineness of certain writings and telegraphic dispatches made by him in his own name or under assumed names. Here again your committee were met by the refusal of the witness to answer as to the genuineness of his own signature, in some cases admitting it only where it was to telegrams in which the Impeachment or trial of the President was distinctly mentioned, and to others where it was alluded to in cipher, or accompanied by such expressions as convinced the committee these telegrams had reference to some corrupt combinations in regard to the trial of the President, he declined to answer. The witness was thereupon, after consultation, dismissed and ordered to appear before the Committee for examination on Thursday, the 21st inst. At half-past ten o'clock a. m. on Thursday, the hour appointed, the witness did not appear, but about one o'clock in the day the Committee received a certificate of his physician, which is as follows:

Washington, D. C., May 21, 1868.—I hereby certify that Col. C. W. Woolley is under my professional care and unable to leave his apartment and confined to his bed by reason of irritative fever, the result of gastric derangement. [Signed,]

D. W. BLISS, M. D.

This was accompanied by a statement of the witness that he was ill, together with a long argument upon his rights, privileges and Constitutional exemptions. The Committee accepting the truth of this claimed illness, did not send for the witness, but went on with their investigation in another direction. Your Committee have since learned, however, that Woolley was well enough on that day to take and did take the evening train for a night ride to New York, and he has not appeared before your Committee since, but has sent a telegraphic certificate of some physician in New York that he is there sick. It will be thus seen that Woolley, the witness, has thus baffled and hindered the investigation ordered by the House by contumacy, in refusing to answer questions, by evasion and by avoidance. The ground taken by the witness in refusing to answer questions put to him assumes that he was judge of the materiality of the testimony and of each question put, that all enquiry upon every topic was to be shut off by his own ipse dixit that it was not material to the subject of enquiry, and of which materiality he was the sole judge, and about which the Committee and the House could have nothing to say. He claimed that if a witness avers that a given question is not material, whether the averment is true or not, from such decision there is no appeal. For example, if the committee could show aliunde that a certain person had received $20,000 or $25,000 of stolen notes of a given bank, Mr. Woolley claims the right to decline to answer questions whether he drew the money from the bank on his checks which were delivered to the receiver, and thus destroyed the connecting link in the chain of testimony showing the theft. Of course this claim cannot be admitted for a moment, or in other words, that the witness, not the tribunal, is to be the judge of the materiality of the facts to be elicited.

Not for the purpose of showing the materiality of the question put to Woolley, but to show the contumacy of the witness, his corruption and untruthfulness, and to justify the Committee in exacting that severe and exemplary punishment be imposed on him for his contempt of the authority of this House and of the nation, the Committee beg leave to report the facts and circumstances as far as they have been developed connecting Charles W. Woolley with the subject matter of the inquiry with which the Committee as charged, showing how necessary it is to public justice that the House should have from Woolley the frankest and fullest statement of every fact known or believed to be true by him.

It seems from the evidence that Charles W. Woolley is a lawyer, not in general practice, but attending to cases before the Bureau of Internal Revenue, generally arising out of alleged frauds in whiskey, or in the language of Judge Dunlevy, a witness before the Committee, and Woolley's associate counsel in their cases. He is a lawyer by profession, a speculator and trader, and does a good deal in stock speculations in fine horses, and he is a Kentuckian, considers himself a Kentucky gentleman, and has Kentucky habits. His wife has a large property and he has a good deal of money. The language of Judge Dunlevy aptly describes a person fitted, and from the evidence it appears to the Committee that he (Woolley) is the manager, or one of the managers, of the concerns of that body of men who are defrauding the government, and popularly known as the "whisky ring." His first appearances as connected with the impeachment case, so far as the evidence fixes the date, was on the 4th of May, by a telegram sent to New York from one of the President's Secretaris, W. W. Warden, late of the Baltimore Sun. In answer to this telegram from Woolley Wm. W. Warden says:

Executive Mansion, May 4.—Dispatch me your opinion of the situation. We'll see you Wednesday morning.

The reply is:

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 4, 1868.

To C. W. Woolley, Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York:

More assured to-day than ever that the President will be acquitted. Such is the opinion of many well posted men of both parties. Several Radicals, close observers, who have heretofore felt sure of conviction, inform me they now have doubt of the result, and that this change of opinion has taken place since Friday. The only persons who assert unqualifiedly that Johnson will be removed are those who know least of the inner workings, and the best informed either admit that there will be acquittal or are in doubt. [s'gd] W. W. WARDEN.

Mr. Woolley next appears about the same time at a meeting in the room of Thurlow Weed at the Astor House, at which were present Mr. Weed, Mr. E. A. Webster, Mr. Sheridan Shook, and Mr. Woolley. To appreciate the importance of this meeting, it is convenient to describe the persons present, their connection with the exterior and interior workings of the Government, as it will be observed that Mr. Warden's dispatch says the only persons that assert unqualifiedly that Johnson will be removed are those who know least of the inner workings, &c. Mr. Thurlow Weed's relation to the high officers of the Government, and connection with all manner of operations not official, are too well known to need description. Mr. E. Webster was for a long time connected with the State Department, is a confidential friend of the Secretary and of Mr. Weed of many years, was afterwards sent as a commissioner or commercial agent to England, and is now Deputy Surveyor of the Custom House, New York. Mr. Sheridan Shook is Collector of Internal Revenue of the Thirty-Second District, New York city, a man of large reputed wealth, and whose appearance and answers before the Committee were such as not to enhance our opinion of his integrity or truthfulness. The object and purposes of the meeting are the best given in the words of witness, who described Mr. Thurlow Weed. Omitting the names of the Senators of whom he speaks, the following is his testimony on the point.

Q. I hold in my hand a telegram from Charles Woolley, dated May 7th, to Hon. Thurlow Weed, New York;

"When will the Albany party be on hand for business. C. W. WOOLLEY, Willard's Hotel."

A. That is the telegram in reference to Hastings.

Q. Did you understand this telegram when you received it. A. I understood no more than anybody else would have understood from it. I understood it asks when Hastings would be in Washington. Q. Nobody else would have understood that it meant that Albany party, Hugh Hastings.

A. I did, because I had a previous telegram.

Q. What business did it relate to?

A. I understood the trial of impeachment.

Q. Did you send Hastings?

A. Yes.

Q. Why should Woolley telegraph you to send an Albany party, which you understood to be Hugh Hastings?

A. A previous telegram named Hastings.

Q. From Wooley?

A. I think so; I may be mistaken; at any rate I received a telegram requesting me to send Hastings to Washington.

Q. That was from Webster, was it not?

A. Perhaps it was. Q. Here is one) "Thurlow Weed, Astor House, New York: He will do it; telegraph to Hugh Hastings come here right away. S. D. Webster." Who is he? A. I have no knowledge about such a telegram, but I do not say I did not receive it. Q. Who did you think was he to do? A. I do not know who he was and what he was to do. Q. Don't you understand that you have already told us that Hastings was to do something about the impeachment business? A. Yes; it would seem he could not refer to Hastings, because he is mentioned in the next sentence. Q. Did you make any inquiry who he was and what he had to do? A. No, sir. Q. Did not you understand what he meant? A. No, sir, but I can tell you, if you will allow me to state. Q. I want to understand who he was. A. I have no knowledge of who he was, nor did I then understand who he meant. If I understood anything about it. Q. "He will do it." What did you understand by that, whoever he was? A. I did not understand who he was or what he was to do, although I have no donbt that I understood that whatever the telegram related to, it was the subject of impeachment.

Q. Then you did receive this telegram on the 6th of May? A. Yes, sir. Q. Then on the 7th of May this one to Hon. Thurlow Weed, New York: "When will the Albany party be on hand for business?" A. Yes, sir. Q. Then on the 8th of May I find this telegram from Woolley to Sheridan Shook: "Go to the Astor House and get from our friend (that meant you) an answer to my dispatch to him yesterday." Did Shook call on you in obedience to this telegram? A. He either called or sent the telegram; I saw the telegram. Q. "And get from our friend." That means you? A. That means me. Q. "And get an answer to my dispatch of yesterday." That was, "when will the Albany party be on hand for business?" What answer did you read? A. I don't think I sent any, because I had not received any from Hastings at that time. Subsequently Hastings came to New York, and came also to Washington. Q. Then on the 13th I find Mr. Webster telegraphs you that the acquittal of the President is a fixed fact. Did not he write to you the grounds upon which he put his opinion? A. I think not. Q. Did you know in any way? A. I did not. Q. Now, then, on the same 13th of May Mr. Cox telegraphs to you "if you can't come over send Sheridan Shook; important." Mr. Cox has testified that that was written at Woolley's. What was the important business that you understood you were to either come or send Sheridan Shook upon the 13th of May. A. Something in connection with impeachment. Q. Something important that you were to do? A. I don't know what. Q. You understood the telegram you sent Shook did'nt you? A. I think he came; it was for me to come or to send Shook. I told him I was not coming. Q. What was that important thing you were to do when you got here? A. I don't know. Q. What did you understand it to be? A. I understood it related to impeachment. I could explain what my understanding of it was if you think proper. Q. You can give the explanation in direct answer to the question. What was the important matter which you and Shook were to do when you got here in relation to impeachment? A. I do not know; I know nothing more than what the telegraph states. Q. Let us put this together and see. On the 6th of May Webster telegraphed to you "he will do it;" "telegraph Hugh Hastings to come here right away." You have forgotten who he is or do not know? A. I do not know. Q. On the 7th Woolley telegraphed to you "when will the Albany party be on hand for business," and you understood that to mean Hastings. On the 8th Woolly again telegraphs Shook, under the cipher, "Hooker go to the Astor House and get from our friend (which you say means you,) "an answer to my dispatch of yesterday." When Shook called on you to get an answer, you do not remember what answer you sent? A. I did not send any. Q. Then on the 13th Mr. Cox says (the 13th being the day after the adjournment of the Senate,) "If you can't come over send Sheridan Shook; important. S. S. Cox." Now, it seems when the telegram was shown you, you understood who Hooker was, and you knew Woolley wanted you or Shook should come and do something that was important about impeachment. Witness—Excuse me, if you assume the language is mine. I said it related to impeachment, not that there was something to be done, but what I did not know. I know the whole subject related to impeachment. Q. But the business shows that something was to be done? A. Yes. Q. "He will do it," shows that something was to be done, which you or Shook could do. Now, pray what was to be done? A. I have answered I do not know. Q. What did you understand was to be done? A. I don't know that I understood anything, and perhaps you will find out I did not. If you will allow me I will say from all I heard on the subject of impeachment, I had no confidence in the schemes talked about, and I declined to have anything to do with them. Q. What were the schemes? A. They were to get the votes of Senators. Q. How? A. As I understood, by purchase, by money. Q. Who were engaged in those schemes? A. I have heard the subject mentioned by a number of parties. Q. Tell me who? A. I think the first person I heard talk on the subject was a Gen. Adams. Q. Formerly in the Confederate army? A. For anything I know, formerly in the Confederate army, though i suppose not. Q. What is his other name? A. I am not sure about that. Q. Were you intimate with him? A. No. Q. How did he come to you, a stranger, to talk to you about purchasing votes? A. Because I think he had talked on the subject with another gentleman, who, in the course of the conversation, said he would consult me. Q. Who was that other gentleman? A. Collector Smythe. I think in that conversation my name was mentioned, and in passing out of the Custom House. By the way, I advised the Collector, and I think the advice occurred with his view, to have nothing to do with this subject. I met with this person passing out of the Custom House, and he introduced him. Q. When? A. I think three weeks ago. Q. Had the Collector talked with you before? A. No. Q. Did you advise the Collector not to have anything to do with the subject before or after you saw Adams? A. Both before and after. Q. Did you introduce the subject to him, a subject that you had never heard of? A. I have just stated the Collector had told me of the conversation with Adams. Q. The Collector told you? A. Yes. Q. What? A. That Adams proposed for a certain sum of money to get votes of certain Senators against conviction. Q. What Senators? A. Of course I am under your direction. I do not voluntarily introduce any names; the names were Senator blank, Senator blank, and I cannot with certainty indicate the other names. Q. Blank? A. I am not sure. Q. Blank? A. Here I want to answer you very unequivocally. Inasmuch as blank voted against impeachment my mind has been a good deal turned to that and I can say I never heard his name mentioned by anybody as one influenced. Q. Anybody else? A. Yes, I understand an arrangement was to be made for four votes, but can't tell positively blank and blank. By Mr. Wilson—Do you remember any reason being stated why but four votes were to be provided for in that way. A. No I do not remember that there was any reason; I had no faith in it; I advised against it. By Mr. Butler—Was it made apparently in good faith to you? A. I made the conversation with Adams rather a brief one. Q. I speak of the conversation with Smythe. A. Smythe told me what Adams said. Q. Was Smythe apparently in earnest about it? A. Smythe was asking my advice as to the degree of confidence to be placed in this man Adams. I said I did not know him. I did not like the looks of it in any way, and thought it not best to have anything to do with it. By Mr. Wilson—Do you know who this man is? A. If Gen. Butler had not have made me hesitate about it, he was in our army originally from the county of Onandago. I got that impression. I know, I believe, he was a man in the Union army, and formerly from the county of Onandago. Mr. Butler, question—That was about three weeks ago? Answer—Yes. Question—Who was the next man who talked with you about purchasing votes? Answer—The subject was often talked about in New York. Question—By whom to you? Answer—I suppose, to answer your question in the spirit in which it is put, the first conversation I had was with Webster, Woolley and Shook. They came to my room at the Astor House. Question—When? Answer—I think a week after Adams was there and it did not occur to me what he was wanted for? Question—When he came to New York and hesitated about going—I want to repeat it so that you may understand exactly what I am asking you. You have testified that one Adams called on you or met you about purchasing some votes; that when Smythe consulted with you about purchasing votes that. Witness, I am sorry to interrupt you, General Butler, but you don't state the question fairly. I did not say Smythe spoke to me about purchasing votes. I told you he repeated what had been said to him and asked me what I thought of the matter. By Gen. Butler—I want to treat you with perfect personal respect, and I want to get exactly all there is on your mind, and you have already told us you had forgotten some of telegrams, and you have already said you did not know the purport of certain matters in those telegrams. I have endeavored, and propose still to endeavor, to bring the circumstances to your mind, not to go back to the conclusion as to what those telegrams mean. Therefore I am putting these questions in this form. A. I think a week after Adams was there. Q. Shook, Woolley and Webster? A. Yes, sir, and my impression is, though I am not very confident, that was the first time I ever saw Woolley. Q. What was there said about it? A. Substantially what Adams said. It was said there was a proposition for votes for money. Q. What sum was mentioned? A. $30,000, I think. Q. For one vote or for more? A. For three votes; but three names were mentioned that I remember. Q. Who were they? A. Blank, Blank, and Blank; that was about a week after the first. Q. About two weeks ago? A. Yes, I think so. Q. Cannot you fix the date any nearer? A. I cannot. Q. Was Hastings in the matter then? A. No, sir, Hastings had not been spoken of then. Q. Who first spoke to you about Hastings? A. The telegram to me. Q. Did you speak of Hastings then? A. After I got the telegram. Q. How did you understand a telegram from Webster, "He will do it," Hastings having never been spoken of. "Tell Hastings to came right away." How did you understand it to relate to impeachment, unless Hastings had been spoken of? Answer—Because the subject had been previously spoken of at my room by these three gentlemen. Question—Now, did not you understand that he referred to some party whose vote was to be purchased? Answer—I had no distinct understaning at all. It was an enigma to me. I dont know that I tried to understand it. I had forgotten that there was such telegrams. I know that the telegram, whatever it was, referred to the subject of impeachment. Q. Then, in accordance with the request of this party, Webster, you did send for Hastings right away. A. I telegraphed to Hastings, saying "He was wanted at Washington." Q. And you telegraphed knowing he was wanted to aid in purchasing votes? A. Is that quite fair. Q. I think so? A. Then I answer distinctly I do not know that he was wanted for any purpose relative to impeachment. Witness—Excuse me for saying to you here, I am glad to receive your explanation. I think there can be no need of misunderstanding where frankness is desired. I have no desire to conceal anything, nor do I desire to be embarrassed by any of the technicalities which may always be resorted to by a long cross-examination which my health does not permit. You shall have a frank answer to every question. Q. Now the question I propose to put to you is this—some three weeks ago you had some conversation with a man named Adams on the subject of purchasing votes either just before or after it. Mr. Smythe had spoken to you on the subject and repeated what Adams had said to him. A. All that occurred within an hour on the same day. Q. About a week after Sheridan Shook, Ed. Webster and Woolley, whom you did not know, called at your room and had a further conversation on the same subject. Up to that time Hugh Hastings had not been mentioned. Then, on the 6th of May, which would be about two weeks ago. Webster telegraphed to you—"He will do ;t; telegraph Hastings to come here right away." You said you did telegraph Hastings to come to Washington, and he did come, and that you understood he was to come relating to the impeachment. Now what I want to call your attention to, and ask you to reply, did you not understand and believe when you received this telegram from Webster that Hastings was to go to Washington upon the same subject which Webster had consulted you when in your room in the Astor House? A. Yes; I supposed it was on the same subject. Q. Did Hastings make any reports when he came back? A. Yes; he told me he had been to Washington. Q. Excuse me, I do not ask what the report was. A. If you ask literally, if he reported to me when he came back, I say no. Q. Did he see you after he came back? A. Yes. Q. Did he make any statement on his visit to Washington? A. Yes. Q. How soon did he return? A. My impression is in about two days. I am not quite sure. Q. Within three days? A. Yes. Q. Having returned within three days, I now find a telegram on the 13th for you to come yourself or to send Shook, who was one of the party who were in your room. You understand that you were wanted to come on this business? A. I did. Q. But if you could not come, you understood that Shook was wanted on this same business? A. Yes. Q. And that was important that he or you should come? A. It was so expressed in the telegram. Q. And you thought it at least so important that you sent him, did you not?. A. No, sir, he did go, but I did not send him. Q. Did you not go to him and tell him to come? A. No. I think he came to see me and asked me about it and I told him I should not go. Mr. Wilson—Did you inform him about the contents of the telegram? A. Think it was to him. Q. No, sir; it was to Taurlow Weed, New York city. "If you cannot come over send Sheridan Shook; important. S. S. Cox." A. My impression was it was to Shook. I showed him the telegram and told him I would not or should not come, and he doubted first whether he would, but finally did. Q. He remained here how long, do you know? A. I cant say; my impression is not more than a day or two.

It will be thus seen Woolley was in New York with Webster and Shook proposing to Thurlow Weed a corrupt scheme to buy the votes of certain Senators, a proposition which Mr. Weed declines giving a reason for so doing, except that he did not think the enterprise a feasible one. By his testimony, he does not show a word of discouragement to parties in the business, because that Woolley wanted for his purpose, and the same he has refused to account for, or rather has accounted for in four different ways, each of which accounts is false—first, by saying he had expended it in his own private business; second, that he had paid it out in his client's business; third that he had sent it to his client in Cincinnati by a check on a bank there, forgetting that sending his own check on a bank in Ohio would not get ten one thousand dollar bills out of his pocket in Washington; fourth, that he had given between $16,000 and $17,000 of this money to Sheridan Shook to keep, which Sheridan Shook denies upon oath, and Woolley now refuses to testify to your Committee what he has done with it, and it is one of the objects of this report to have him brought to the bar of this House and forced to disclose. Meanwhile there seems to have been a little difficulty which Woolley could not arrange or Hastings make smooth, and which required the master hand of Thurlow Weed, or that of his scarcely less able or less skilful Lieutenant, Sheridan Shook, to adjust. It will be remembered that opinions were delivered in the Senate on the 11th by the same Senators; that on the 13th it was public rumor that a Senator or Senators would resign or vote for the eleventh article. Something, whether it was that rumor or not, disturbed the associates of Weed's room at the Astor House. It would not be well for the Committee at present to disclose what evidence they may have affecting other parties, but that something had happened which interfered with their calculations on that day is most certain. J. B. Craig telegraphed from New York on the 12th of May, in answer to an inquiry from Samuel Ward, "I leave at 7:30; will see you early." He arrived here, of course, on the morning of the 13th, and telegraphed on the same day as, he swears, by direction of Woolley to Sheridan Shook, "Come on by first train; very important." What was it that was so important, that the third or fourth member of the Astor House association for the purchase of votes should be here to attend to it? Lest that telegram should not find Shook at the Fifth Avenue Hotel on the same day and hour, Craig telegraphed Shook, by order of Woolley, "You must come here and untangle a snarl between friends at once." What snarl had happened between friends? Craig swears he does not know, and said, although he came in obedience to a telegram, he never inquired or was told after he got here what this important snarl was. Sheridan Shook did come, but not until S. S. Cox had telegraphed by direction of Woolley to Thurlow Weed, but as Cox swears, without knowledge of its import. "If you cannot come over, send Sheridan Shook; important." This telegram, Thurlow Weed testifies, related to the subject of impeachment, as talked over in his room at the Astor House, and as he could not, Shook did come by the morning train of the 15th. So the snarl, whatever it was, was about purchasing the votes of Senators. Shook's deputy, Shafer, telegraphed to Craig at 11:42 A. M. of the 14th, that "Shook would leave New York to-morrow morning." Hastings in the meantime had returned to New York and the matter for which Weed and Shook were wanted seems not to have been fully arranged until after Shook got to Washington, or the snarl between friends entangled, because Wash McLean, on the 13th, telegraphed to Woolly this inquiry, "Will Johnson be deposed? When will you be here?" Instead of replying to him with the assurance of certainty he had used to some of his friends on the 11th, Woolly does not seem to have had that confidence that impeachment had gone higher than a kite, and that certainty which he had expressed before the snarl took place; but in answer telegraphed as follows, under date of 14th of May: "To Washington McLean, N. Y.: Johnson stock at par. Managers examining witnesses as to corruption. Senators Hendricks, Van Winkle, Willey, Trumbull and Johnson met at at Chase's house last night to form a new party. We have them demoralized, and bitter. Don't leave New York till I see you; say Sunday certainly." It would seem, therefore, that at the time the Astor House association were rather relying upon the political situation in aid of their efforts, as Webster telegraphed to Thurlow Weed, on the 13th, as follows: "The acquittal of the President is a fixed fact. Already recrimination is indulged in between the impeachment leaders, and Forney has been compelled to resign. The present plan of the of the Impeachers is to adjourn again on Saturday without taking a vote." Thus it is seen with what care Mr. Weed was privately kept informed upon the subject of Impeachment, and how scrupulously he watched every varying phase of the trial. But Sheridan Shook, his associate, who had been sent for by three different telegrams —"Important, come by first train to entanganle the snarl between friends"—who was to take the place of Weed—who was to "be sure to come or send Shook, important,"—did arrive on the night of the 15th. Weed, as will be seen by his testimony, expressly swears that this telegram to Shook related to the matter talked over at his room in the Astor House, that is, how Senators' votes might be purchased to secure acquittal.

Presbyterian General Assembly.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ALBANY, (N. Y.) May 25.—The Presbyterian General Assembly, Old School, reassembled to-day. A telegram was read from the Assembly at Harrisburg, that a portion of the Tuesday morning session would be devoted to prayer for the Divine guidance upon the important subject of reunion. A response was sent that this Assembly would unite in that prayer.

The third annual report upon the freedmen was submitted. It shows 165 missionaries, of whom 110 are of the African race, total receipts $650,868, of which $8,871 were contributed by the freedmen; 60 churches and 4,003 communicants; 38 schools and 2,889 pupils.

Rev. Joseph Williams, a colored delegate from Georgia, by request, addressed the assembly. He is an old man, and has been a preacher for thirty years among his fellow slaves. He urged unity of action and intercourse among the ministers of both races, and plead for aid from the North. He defended his race against the imputation of indolence and dishonesty. His speech evinced talent, and was warmly applauded.

The Report of the Board of Education showed the receipts to be 43,364; there were 294 candidates for the ministry; 22 parochial schools; 94 academies; 13 colleges and 9 schools for persons of foreign birth or lineage.

—According to the latest Cretan accounts, another battle was fought on the 4th of April, on the plain of Heraclion, in which 3,000 Cretans repulsed a vastly superior number of Turks, who were supported by regular Circassian cavalry. The English man-of-war Trinculo witnessed a battle on the 6th of April; the Cretans achieved another victory. Other battles took place at Seetino and Veloudaki. In the latter the Turks had 400 men killed and wounded. Sixty thousand refugees of Cretan families in Greece were exposed to great misery. The Greek Government has spent three millions of dollars to save them from starvation.

—President Johnson has declined an invitation of the Knights Templar of Springfield, Mass., to visit that city on the occasion of the celebration of St. John's Day, June 24th.

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

FROM A JUNE IDYL.

BY JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL.

May is a pious fraud of the almanac,
A ghostly parody of real Spring
Shaped out of snow and breathed with eastern wind;
Or if, o'er confident, she trust the date,
And, with her handful of anemones,
Herself as shivery, steal into the sun,
The season need but turn his hourglass round
And Winter suddenly, like crazy Lear,
Reels back, and brings the dead May in his arms,
Her budding bosom and wan disinstered front
With frosty streaks and drifts of his white beard
All overblown. Then, warmly walled with books,
While my coal-grate supplies the sun's defect,
Whispering old forest sagas in its dreams,
I take my May down from the happy shelf
Where perch the world's rare song-birds in a row,
Waiting my choice to open with full breast,
And beg an alms of spring time ne'er denied
Indoors by vernal Chaucer, whose fresh woods
Throb thick with merle and mavis all the year.

Some of the thieves have been arrested.

Bishop Simpson's Version of the Lord's Prayer.

The impudence of Democratic journalists is only equaled by their blasphemy as the following article fully illustrates. We clip it from the Petersburg, (Va.) Index:

Our Father, who art in Heaven, hollered be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth as it is done in Heaven, subject to the decision of the Radical party. Give us this day our daily bread, and whatever we can take from the rebels. Forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us, always excepting Andrew Johnson and the white inhabitants of the southern States. Lead us not into the temptation of becoming a Copperhead, but deliver us from the evil of Conservative rule. And ours shall be kingdom, the power and the glory for ever and ever. Amen.

And while we are upon the subject of the Bishop's creed, we will subjoin some convenient alterations, which his practice and that of his fellow-citizens North have made in the ten commandments:

Thou shalt kill rebels. Thou shalt steal from rebels. Thou shalt bear false witness against thy Southern neighbors. Thou shalt covet thy Southern neighbor's house. Thou shalt covet his wife, and his man-servant, and his maid-servant, and his ox, and his ass, and anything that is thy Southern neighbors.

We respect the office of a Bishop, and the Bishop, when he complies with his duties. But he must "not be given to filthy lucre; but patient; not a brawler; not covetous."

But this Simpson, this political brawler, this covetous Bishop, who would rob his impoverished brethren of the South, even of their places of worship—this presider over a convocation of devil's chaplains—this wolf in sheep's clothing, who leads a hungry pack, similarly disguised, against the sheep-folds of the South—what shall we say of him? "Only this and nothing more:" Believing that he will have to appear at a bar where his hypocritical disguises will be stripped from him—while

We love a priest,
We love a seer,
We agree a prophet of the soul,
Yet for all his faith can see,
We would not this good (?) Bishop be.

RIVER NEWS.

Both rivers continue to recede steadily at this point with five feet two inches in the Monongahela, and six feet in the Allegheny. The weather yesterday was cloudy and warm, with indications at times of rain. At Oil City the Allegheny is reported falling with twenty-nine inches in the channel at that point.

The arrivals include the St. Marys, from Cincinnati, and the Julia No. 2, from Zanesville. The St. Marys, from Cincinnati, and the Ingomar, for Wheeling, were the only departures.

The Emma No. 3, Capt. J. H. Marratta, will positively leave for St. Louis at noon to-day, and passengers and shippers should bear this in mind.

The Argosy, Capt. Vandergrift, with Mr. W. H. Scott, in the office, is the regular Wednesday packet for Cincinnati.

The Bayard, Capt. Shepard, is the regular packet for Parkersburg to-day, leaving at noon.

The Armenia, from Pittsburgh to Saint Louis, and the Glendale from St. Louis to Pittsburgh, passed Evansville on Saturday. The New York, from Nashville to Pittsburgh, passed Louisville the same day.

The towboat Simpson Horner, en route from New Orleans to Pittsburgh, passed Cairo on Saturday.

A St. Louis telegram, under date of Saturday, says: From May 1 to 19, inclusive, 13,431 tons left this port on steamer and barges for New Orleans. In former times this would have required one boat per day, but the large size of steamers and the introduction of the barge system has worked a great change. The Geo. D. Palmer will be rebuilt, and run in the Upper Mississippi. The Missouri is low, and rapidly falling below Lexington.

The Alice V. left St. Louis for Pittsburgh on Thursday last. She had 800 tons of iron ore engaged at Corondolet.

The New York, en route from Nashville to this port, has 140 sacks cornmeal and 200 sacks corn for Isaiah Dickey & Co.; and 200 tons metal and 50 tons blooms for Nimick & Co.

A Cairo correspondent says: Captain John Gordon, commanding the towboat Sam Brown, states that the pilot John White, who was at the wheel when the three barges of coal were sunk on her last trip from Louisville, was not drunk, as reported some time ago, nor had he been under the influence of liquor during the term of his employment on the Brown. The person, J. T. Willis, who claimed to be mate on the Brown, and gave the false information concerning the affair, did so maliciously for the purpose of injuring pilot White's character.

We clip the following in regard to the coal fleet from the Louisville Courier, of Saturday and Sunday: The towboat A. J. Baker took a tow of coal over the falls last evening, and will leave for New Orleans today. The Bengal Tiger laid up her tow of coal at this port. The towboat Mary Ann took a portion of her tow over the falls yesterday. The towboat Alps took a couple of barges of coal over the falls yestesday and returned.

Over forty boats are laid up at Cairo, and about the same number at Cincinnati.

The St. Louis Republican, of Saturday, says: The Kate Putnam arrived during Thursday night with a "sore head," occasioned by coming in collision with the Memphis packet Belle St. Louis. An investigation will be held by the Local Inspectors.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 140.

THE National Union Republican Executive Committee have organized for the campaign by electing M. CLAFLIN, of Massachusetts, Chairman, and W. E. CHANDLER, Secretary, the headquarters to be in Washington.

THE COURSE of events at Washington this week will exercise a potent influence in deciding Congressional legislation in reference to the reconstructed States. It is generally believed that five of them will be restored to representation, and that Alabama will be remitted to a new election, with an intermediate provisional government. This solution of the question is fully in accordance with the popular judgment and with the demands of the occasion.

IT was stated in these columns, some weeks ago, that a law had been passed exempting mortgages and other money securities from taxation, except for State purposes. It appears that the law was not general, but special, applying to only a part of the Commonwealth.

This system of legislating for particular counties or townships, on matters of common concernment, is altogether wrong, and ought to be abrogated. A law like that just referred to ought to apply to all the counties, or to none. This sort of special legislation has been tolerated quite too long already.

FOR some months past many office holders under the federal government have found it comparatively easy, in consequence of the peculiar political situation, to maintain a quasi understandtng with both the President and Congress. It is now stated, and the statement is strongly corroborated by probabilities, that the President, if he shall be be acquitted on all the Articles of Impeachment, will at once make a movement which will increase the perplexities of placemen; that he will make ad interim appointments in all cases where he is not sure of the fidelity of the incumbents to his person and policy.

THE attempts made within the last few years by the Legislature of this State, to restock with fish, and particularly with shad, the streams under its jurisdiction which discharge into the Atlantic ocean, have not been attended with much success. Navigation companies and manufacturing establishments continue to exercise powers so nearly identical with those absolute ownership over the streams that salt-water fish are hedged out and fresh-water fish annihilated. At the last session the Legislature made a fresh effort to compel such an arrangement of the dams as to allow fish to pass up; but we doubt if the new measure will be more effectual than the former ones.

THE DEMOCRACY, sorely beset by the ls of any existing choice among their a ndidates for a Presidential nomination, are about to welcome their deliverer. Their old friend JOHNSON, who has been faithful through life, (barring his little side-play for personal purposes during the "unpleasantness,") and in his death is not likely to be divided from them, has come to rescue them from despondency. Nor is he alone. Judge CHASE is his ally, and, more than that, is the nominee whom he exhorts the Democracy to accept. The telegrams from Washington of late, confirmed by additional rumors through several channels yesterday, all concur in this solution of the Democratic troubles. We print these telegrams in another column.

WHEN the GAZETTE took the ground that Senators who voted to put Mr. STANTON back into the War Office, and then resolved to acquit the President of usurping authority in removing him, were corrupted by money, the Conservatives insisted it was uncharitable and censorious. If the report of the Committee of Managers as to discovered facts bearing on this matter, does not establish the criminality of particular Senators, it does induce a moral certainty that money was used to influence the votes of Senators. What now remains is to find out to which of the Senators it was paid. Until this can be substantially determined, each of the Republican Senators who voted for acquittal will be judged according to the probabilities of his particular case.

PRACTICAL EDUCATION.

The System of Education established in any country, if normal in its development, must be closely related, in fundamental principles, to the civil government existing therein. A theocratic government necessarily bestows special care upon the training of priests; a military government, upon the production of soldiers; an oligarchial government upon the mental equipment of an aristocracy; and a democratic government upon the education of all the people. Hence, the popular criticisms that the Papal, Russian and English governments have failed to provide liberally for the education of their respective populations are lame and pointless. In this particular those governments have each proceeded according to its special genius. To have acted in any other manner would have been unnatural; nay, would have been to prepare the way for the subversion of the existing political order. This is manifest in England; the demand for popular Education and the aspiration for complete political liberty advance together. Every concession of educational advantages to the masses speedily produces a challenge for an extension of the political suffrage; and these two constantly act and react upon each other.

In obedience to popular requirement Prussia and Austria, some years ago, instituted systems of popular instruction. Of course, each of those governments sought to hedge about its special system with such safeguards to monarchy as seemed most suited to ensure the ancient political order. But they overlooked the intrinsic fact that universal education and imperial rule are radically incompatible, and cannot permanently co-exist. Out of these educational systems have grown the recent demand in Prussia for a Parliament, and in Austria for the secularization of marriage, and other cognate movements. And the end is not yet, as whoever watches will abundantly learn.

The men who laid the foundations of Empire on this continent builded according to their knowledge, and could not do otherwise. Those of them who came from countries at once papal and monarchic brought with them systems of education designed primarily to create and discipline ruling classes in Church and State; while those of them who came from countries in which monarchy and democracy were contending for supremacy, and each more or less blindly, brought mixed systems; but with a preponderance of aristocratic elements. These were the systems at first established in the Eastern and Middle States of this Union.

It must farther be observed, in order to have a correct understanding of this subject, that through what are called the Dark Ages, pretty much all learning consisted in knowledge of mathematics and the Greek and Latin classics. To be acquainted with these, was to be learned, in the highest sense then conceivable. As colleges were planted, it was on this basis. But when, upon the introduction of printing, the spirit of inquiry broke out, and forms and semblances, venerated for ages, were rudely interrogated, to know by what right they stood, enforcing recognition and allegiance, the area of knowledge broadened wonderfully. The scientific era, properly so named, was introduced. Not that the methods of investigation reputed peculiar to that era, were unknown or unpracticed before; for whoever thoughtfully reads Socrates, Plato, Pliny, Seneca, and many others of the older worthies, will find them habitually discarding the dogmatic for either the deductive or the inductive methods of examination. True, they did not as clearly develop either as has been done in modern times; but they led the way, and set illustrious examples.

But, colleges as at first organized and conducted were aristocratic, monarchic, imperial, or papal, according to the genius of the government under which they were created. Hence, they were permeated, through and through, by a spirit of intense Conservatism. Occasionally, in an institution, here or there, or in a particular epoch, under the leadership of a great man, or in consequence of a temporary inspiration from a higher source than usual, a sort of meteoric blaze would break out; but this was not the permanent condition. On the whole, the great institutions of learning were stolidly Conservative. Not that Conservatism was inherent in them. It was derived from the systems of government by which they were produced and supported, and to which they were made subordinate.

As democracy has been developed in the United States the colleges have felt a necessity laid on them of conforming to the prevalent ideas. Perhaps justice requires us to go farther and affirm that the conductors of these establishments have partaken, less or more, of the democratic tendency. At all events, indications abound, and with increasing plentifulness, of the design of Presidents, Professors and Trustees of Colleges, throughout the country, to adapt their courses of instructton to the distinctive character of the government and to the wants of the people. As one of the latest of these indications, it is deserving of mention that at a recent meeting of the Overseers of Harvard College President HILL presented the votes of the corporation recommending the establishment, as soon as the necessary funds can be raised, of lectures on the practical affairs of business, the mutual relations of the interests of capital and labor, and the development of national resources. Ten thousand dollars was mentioned as the amount that would be required to found the lectureships, though smaller sums would be received for the present; the lectures to be open to all connected with the University, with the exception of undergraduates of the lower classes; fees to be required of all who avail themselves of the lectureships, who are not connected with the University.

Another vote, that the rules regulating these lectures be applied to all lectureships established in 1868, was also reported.

This action was fully sustained by the Board.

Nor is the democratic development in respect to education less conspicuous, if attention is turned to the endowment, and multiplication of Colleges for teaching young women. Until quite recently Female Seminaries were places where fashionable embossment and guilding were imparted; elegant mannerism, frivolous superficiality, and pretentious nothingness made to stand in place of solid attainments and held to be altogether more desirable. Now the course of study in the best Female Colleges fairly approximates, if it does not fully equal, that adopted in the Colleges highest in repute for young men. This notable change, so far as it has progressed, is due to the spirit of democracy, with which it comports. It will be completed as fast as democracy shall be perfectly comprehended and accepted as the genuine basis of all institutions.

AN INFAMOUS COALITION.

A more than half-convicted criminal has struck hands with his judge, serving the latter's ambition at the price of impunity to the former. And these two, by the consenting opinion of all honest men, are chargeable with suborning a portion of the jurors, to ensure the escape of a guilty man from his merited punishment. Chief Justice CHASE is to be re-paid by the political alliance of the man whose acquittal he stands charged with promoting. ANDREW JOHNSON is now foremost in urging his lenient judge as the Presidential candidate of the Democratic party. The official manifesto to this end emanated from the White House yesterday, and it is an effectual confirmation of all the discreditable rumors which have recently pained the public ear. We print elsewhere such details as have transpired, and which leave no room for doubting the facts of this infamous negotiation.

A word or two for this intrigue in its aspects other than political. The President, who has been arraigned before the Senate for high misdemeanors in office, who has been adjudged guilty by a large majority of that body although technically acquitted through an extreme Constitutional precaution adopted by the framers of our government—this President who to-day still stands an impeached offender at the bar; this Chief Justice who presides at his trial, and whose immaculate purity has been vaunted all over the land; some of these Senators who are the sworn jurors to pronounce upon the guilt or innocence of the accused—all these men, the highest officers of the government, pre-eminently the embodiment of the pure and impartial justice of the Republic, stand at last revealed, confessed, shamelessly avowing their conspiracy, and that its object is to defeat that justice, to avert from one criminal the just penalties of his offences, to secure still higher power for another and to advance the personal interests of all the lesser parties to the plot.

From the President, such developments do not surprise the country. The people know that he is a bad man; they have been thankful in perceiving that, while he is also bold, the wicked audacity of a bad heart fails of an equivalent support from a brain capable of mischief. But the people had been led to expect other things from Mr. CHASE. He, whom we loved to commend for his clear ability, whom we had admired for the stainless purity of an incorruptible Judge, whom we upheld as the brilliant embodiment of a justice too lofty to be stained by common baseness, and too impartial to be swayed from the right line of duty even to save a Republic from suffering, this great Judge defiles himself with the meanest tricks of a vulgar politician, putting his high office in the market for votes. The Puritan and the black-leg have joined hands; the criminal and his judge are united; the bad heart of the one is reinforced by the large brain of the other, and the infamous coalition makes a mockery of a solemn trial, to their eternal dishonor and to the unspeakable disgrace of the nation.

The representatives of the people need no longer overlook the plain path of their own duty. They err grievously in dealing with smaller and more contemptible matters when events have so clearly illuminated the higher responsibility before them. Let them rise to the level of the occasion and grapple with the real offenders. Why waste time upon the wretched tools and go-betweens of the conspiracy, when the master-plotters stand defiantly more than half revealed before them? The House will show itself worthy of the nation's confidence, in its courage and in its capacity for the crisis, by striking boldly at the leading offenders. It is no time to waste upon trifles when weightier matters press at the door. Their business is not with the hounds, but with the masters of the pack. The criminal who buys his deliverance, the judge who puts his own ambition in the scales, the jurors who make merchandise of their oaths, and the infamous conspiracy which embraces them all, these are equally the proper objects of a further investigation, and by none is it more needed.

TENNESSEE.

No encouragement to Union sentiment in the South can be more potent than that which a thoroughly organized and practical system for the promotion of Northern emigration would afford. And we know of none, among the Southern States, which holds out to such an immigration higher inducements, in soil, climate, mineral resources and in the moral and political sympathies of her native population, than does Tennessee. The mountain regions of her eastern counties particularly have become already renowned for the loyalism of their population, while the wealth of their natural resources is becoming partially known. The authorities of that State have organized a Commission for the encouragement of emigration from the North, and placed it under the charge of Rev. HERMANN BOKUM, a gentleman who is every way qualified for the important trust. We understand that he is now in this city, at the Merchants' Hotel, and that he proposes to confer with some of our leading citizens upon the objects of his Commission. We shall take an early opportunity to allude to the special interest which Pittsburgh should feel in the development of a region with which, before many years have gone by, we shall find ourselves, it is hoped, in a closer communication than we at present enjoy.

Washington Topics and Gossip.

Specials of Monday say: Those who have hitherto been slow to believe that Chief Justice Chase was being seriously pressed for the Democratic nomination, have been compelled to change their minds by the appearance in the telegraphic dispatches furnished to the various Democratic papers by the official stenographer at the White House, of an article commending Chase to the New York Convention as the strongest candidate. The idea put forth, and which is undoubtedly approved, if not inspired by the President, is that there is a feeling, in consequence of the strength of the Republican nominations, that the most available candidates must be chosen by the Conservatives; that those most prominently urged for the nomination unite in this view; that there is quite a general concurrence in the idea that the Chief Justice could unite all factions among the Conservatives; could carry seventy Southern electoral votes, and would command more Conservatives, Republicans and disaffected Radicals than any other man that could be nominated. It is needless to say that the publication of this remarkable dispatch, coming from the source it does, excites much comment. It is regarded as a corroboration of statements which have hitherto encountered some doubts, that Chase wanted the Democratic nomination, and as throwing light upon his anxiety to procure President Johnson's acquittal, as well as his intriguing with the colored clergy.

The Chase party are working very earnestly and it is growing very rapidly; now it is thought that if he can secure the acquittal of Johnson he will be the strongest man they can bring.

Special Meeting--The Sewerage Law--Districting the City--The Report Referred Back to the Committee.

A special meeting of Allegheny Councils was held on Monday evening, May 25th, to consider the report of the Sewerage Commission, appointed by act of Assembly, to divide the city into districts for the purpose of sewerage.

Select Council.

Members present: Messrs. Black, Brown, Callery, English, Faulkner, Gang, Gwinner, Hall, Jahn, Krebs, Motheral, Myler, Patterson, J. C., Patterson, A., Phillips, Riddle, Reiter, Smith, A. D., Weise, Wettach and President McBrier.

On motion of Mr. Brown the reading of the minutes was dispensed with.

The chairman stated the object of the meeting.

Mr. Myler, chairman of the Commission, said that the sewerage law was a very peculiar one, and that every time he examined it he discovered some new feature in it. It might be all right but he did not know whether it was or not. The Commission had proposed a plan of sewerage for the city as directed under the law, and submitted it to Councils at the last preceding meeting, which report had been laid over, and the present meeting called for the purpose of considering and adopting it if in conformity with the views of a majority of Councils. He had since been reading the law and observed that before Councils could act upon the report the law required at least five days' notice to be given through the official papers of the city to parties interested, and in consequence of this the Commission had prepared an ordinance requiring the said notice to begin.

Mr. Hall had not examined the law thoroughly, but thought that the City Solicitor should have been requested to give instructions to Councils how to proceed under its provision, and point out each progressive step to be taken in the matter.

Mr. Myler read the second section of the act which provides that no sewer shall be constructed, or a plan for its construction be adopted by Councils, until five days' notice shall have been given to all parties interested in its construction.

Mr. Brown said that Councils had not met for the purpose of adopting a proposed location or continuation of any sewer; but to consider the report of the Commissioners appointed to district the city for sewerage purposes, for which the law did not require notice to be given.

Mr. Hall thought the report of the City Engineer to the Commissioners had been submitted to Councils as the report of the Committee.

Mr. Myler said that such was not the case.

Mr. Riddle moved the adoption of the report, which provides that the city be divided into four districts.

Mr. Myler thought a more favorable plan might be adopted. He objected to having the filth from the sewers discharged in the river at a point so near the center of the city, and thought it could be conducted to a point below Manchester at a less cost than the plan now proposed.

Mr. Riddle thought the gentleman should confine his remarks to the question under consideration, which he said was the districting of the city for sewerage and not the construction of sewers.

Mr. J. C. Patterson opposed the plan proposed by the report of the Chairman.

After some further debate by Messrs. Brown, English, J. C. Patterson, A. Patterson, Hall, Riddle and Myler, Mr. Myler moved to refer the report back to the Commission for reconsideration, and called for the yeas and nays.

A vote was then taken, which resulted as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Callery, Gwinner, Hartman, Jahn, Krebs, Motheral, Myler, Patterson, J. C., Patterson, A., Phillips, Reiter, Smith, A. D., Weise and Wettach—14.

Nays—Messrs. Black, Brown, English, Faulkner, Gang, Hall, Riddle and President McBrier—8.

Councils adjourned.

Common Council.

Members present: Messrs. Brown, Blair, Comley, Fleming, Groelzinger, Hanna, Hastings, Hochuly, Ley, Megraw, McNeill, Reynolds, Reed, Richardson, Saints, Seidle, Tate, Voegtly, White.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Mr. McNeill in the chair.

Mr. Comley presented a petition for a fire plug on Perry street, and Red Oak alley. Referred to the Water Committee.

Mr. Voegtly presented a resolution authorizing the erection of a gas lamp on the corner of Chestnut and Pike streets. Referred to the Gas Committee.

Mr. Megraw offered a resolution authorizing a Special Committee to inquire under what law the late election was held in the Eighth ward. In Select Council the seats for this ward are contested.

Mr. Hanna opposed the resolution on the ground that Common Council has no right to interfere with Select Council business. The resolution was finally adopted by including the City Solicitor in the Committee. Messrs. Megraw, Tate and Voegtly were appointed in C. C.

Mr. Brown offered a resolution authorizing the erection of a gas lamp on the corner of Isabella Court and Robinson street. Referred to Gas Committee.

Adjourned.

Leave for Europe.—Our esteemed fellow citizens, Samuel McClurkan, Esq., the well known saddler and Mr. Robert Dickey, leave for Europe to-day to visit their native land. This will be Mr. McClurkan's fifth voyage and Mr. Dickey's first. The latter returns to the home of his childhood in Antrim, Ireland after an absence of more than a half century. We wish both a pleasant journey and a safe return to this city, where they have made so many friends. Mr. McClurkan will furnish the GAZETTE with jottings by the wayside in a series of promised letters.

Annual Meeting of the Allegheny Library Association—Interesting Reports—Election of Officers for the Ensuing Year.

Last night the flourishing Allegheny Public Library Association held its annual meeting at its rooms in City Building, Federal street. The attendance was quite large, and much interest was manifested in the proceeding. Josiah King, Esq., was called to preside. On assuming the position he made a few remarks pertinent to the occasion after which Mr. A. Leggate, Secretary of the Associatiou briefly addressed the meeting. He gave a faithful exposition of the state of affairs of the Library, and heartily urged those present to cooperate with the members who had in time past labored zealously for the extension of the Library, and the greater diffusion of its advantages. At the conclusion of his remarks he read a carefully drawn report of the transactions of the Association during the year just closed. We glean the following interesting facts from the document:

There are three hundred and seventy-nine members; the Association has placed on the library shelves, during the year, one hundred and fifteen new volumes and have had one hundred and eleven old ones rebound, together with twenty-four volumes of periodicals. During the year the circulation of the library aggregated 10,219 volumes, being an increase over last year of 2,379, which goes to show that the institution is becoming daily more powerful in the dissemination of useful knowledge. The receipts from all sources during the year, added to $234,-41 on hand at last report, amounted to $1,-485 45, and expenditures $1,437 89, leaving a balance of $47 86 in the treasury. The lectures held under the auspices of the Association netted clear $84 65. Although favorable enough, the Treasurer's report does not show that the full support, to which so noble an institution is worthy, has been awarded by our friends in Allegheny. The reports were adopted.

An election for officers to serve the ensuing year was then entered upon with the following result:

President, John B. Clark; Vice-President, A. W. Martin; Secretary, A. Leggate; Treasurer, J. N. Davidson; Directors, James Lockhart, James M'Brier, E. M. Still, Jas. E. Stevenson, R. H. Elton, Henry Phipps, Jr., James Caldwell; Auditors, Wm. Semple, R. B. Francis, D. Macferron.

After the election, Messrs. Chamberlain and Blair briefly addressed the meeting, and Messrs. Henry Phipps, Frank Blair and Charles Wattley were, on motion, appointed a Committee to take into consideration the advisability of changing the time of the annual meeting to the third Monday in November, and report to the Board of Directors, who shall have power to take action in the matter.

On motion, adjourned.

Firemen's Association.

An adjourned meeting of the Pittsburgh Firemen's Association was held last night in their hall, City Building, President Cupples occupying the chair.

The Chairman announced that the object of the meeting was to take action and determine whether or not the annual parade will be held by the Fire Department.

The Allegheny, Independence and Relief delegates reported that their companies had taken no action on the subject, while the Duquesne and Vigilant representatives announced that their companies had determined not to participate in the proposed annual parade. Thus the matter rested. Several motions bearing on the subject were made but not seconded, and of course, no action resulted.

On motion of Mr. Irwin of the Niagara, a committee of three was appointed to call on Insurance Companies for pecuniary aid.

Mr. Tatnall of the Relief said that heretofore all the subscriptions had been received from home companies and the foreign ones who received a full share of public patronage had failed to contribute their due share towards the support of the organization.

The following gentlemen were appointed on the Committee: Messrs. Irwin, of the Niagara, Torley, of the Vigilant, and Tatnall, of Relief.

On motion adjourned.

NATURE IS THE GREAT PHYSICIAN.

This is now admitted, by the medical profession, as a fundamental principle of healing science. It is wisely provided by the human economy that whenever anything is wrong in the physical system the natural forces of the body are brought to bear to expel the disease. The great aim, therefore, is to strengthen the natural powers. This has been kept in view by the skillful compounders of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, which operates to give fresh vitality to all the organs of the body. The effect of this medicine upon the stomach, the liver and the kidneys, is prompt and decisive. The patient, who is wise enough to quit drugging and try the BITTERS, soon feels as if he had taken a new lease of life, and as he continues the use of the article, he is overjoyed to find the streams of health coursing through his frame. It is prepared with great care, and its component parts are entirely vegetable. It is free from the objections so often urged against preparations of the kind. As a medical agent it has no equal, while its pleasing flavor and healthful effects have made it a general favorite. It is free from all properties calculated to impair the system, and its operations are at once mild, soothing and efficient. All who have used HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS attest its virtues and commend it to use. Even those who are in enjoyment of perfect health frequently have need to have recourse to tonics as preventives of disease. We are never too well armed against the assaults of "the ills that flesh is heir to." In health or sickness this tonic cannot be taken regularly without giving vitality and elasticity to the system.

ANOTHER CURE OF DEAFNESS.

I lost my hearing during the last year. Part of the time I was totally deaf. In April of this year I was induced, from an advertisement, to make application to DR. KEYSER, 120 Penn street, Pittsburgh. After having tried various medicines from doctors, without any benefit, I have been under Dr. Keyser's treatment now for nearly two months, and am entirely restored to my hearing, so that I can hear a pin drop.

Coal Bluffs, Washington Co., Pa.

ANOTHER CURE.

A man called to-day at Dr. Keyser's office to inform him of a great cure made by his LUNG CURE, or PULMONARY RESTORATIVE. Not these cures are made with the Doctor's preparations, he desires it to be distinctly understood that most of his great cures are made in accordance with the established laws that govern the science of medicine, in which he has been engaged for the past twenty-five years. Last week he was also in receipt of a letter from a clergyman in the State of Ohio, detailing another most wonderful cure.

CITY OF PITTSBURGH WATER LOAN.

PROPOSALS FOR

OF THE

Bonds of the "Water Extension Loan,"

Will be received at the office of the CITY CONTROLLER, Fourth street.

These are COUPON BONDS, bearing interest at the rate of SEVEN PER CENT. per annum, payable semi-annually, at the office of the City Treasurer, and the Bonds are to be paid off in twenty-five years from April 1, 1868.

By Act of Assembly the Revenue of the Water Works is pledged for the payment of the Bonds and Coupons, and the latter are by law made receivable for Water Rents, and the Act authorizing the Loan creates a SINKING FUND of not less than two per cent. of all bonds which may have been issued in pursuance of said Act. The Councils are bound to appropriate annually a sufficient sum for interest, and not less than two per cent. of all bonds which may have issued to go into the Sinking Fund.

The proceeds of these Bonds can only be used for the extension and improvement of the City Water Works, which will increase the revenue, while at present it is far greater than is required to insure the payment of interest and retirement of the Bonds.

The Bonds are EXEMPT FROM STATE, COUNTY and CITY TAX, which, together with all the foregoing advantages, make the Bonds the most desirable security offered to the public.

Bids under par will not be considered.

By order of Finance Committee.

The improvements are a two-story brick house of six rooms, hall and cellar, a good frame bank barn with stabling underneath, and other outbuildings; a well of good standing water at the door, and several standing springs of water on the farm, and an orchard of 200 trees of selected fruits of apples, cherries, pears, peaches, quinces and grapes. This property being located near the line of the railroad, within one hour's ride of the city, makes it very desirable for gardening or a dairy farm; it is also a good and beautiful location for country homes near the city, lying immediately on the river, on the opposite side from the railroad. The West Newton Accommodation and other trains on the railroad afford certain and frequent opportunities of daily communication to and from this city. Will be sold as a whole or in lots of one acre or more, to suit purchasers.

The improvements are a two-story frame house, with six rooms and good cellar, a frame bank barn 40 by 60 feet, and other outbuildings. There is on the place a young apple and peach orchard; 120 acres cleared land, divided into fields of convenient size, a large portion of which are well set in clover and timothy; the residue of said tract covered with good timber. It is well watered and underlaid with coal and limestone, and is convenient to churches, schools, stores, mills and blacksmith shops. A real good bargain is offered in this excellent farm; and with it will be sold all the personal property on the premises, consisting of horses, cows, stock cattle, hogs and poultry, harness, gears, wagon, plows, farming implements and household and kitchen furniture. Together will be sold very low and on easy terms, to a responsible purchaser.

Also, a desirable and very fertile Tract of Land of 158 ACRES AND 25 PERCHES, in Elizabeth Tp., Allegheny county, Pa., on the line of the Hempfield railroad, and one and one-half miles from the Connellsville railroad at Suter's Station. The improvements are a log house, frame barn, good fencing, and an apple orchard of good fruit. It is well watered and underlaid with limestone and flag stone of a superior quality, with stone coal for the use of the farm.

Also, The best FARM in Fairfield township, Westmoreland county, Pa., of 250 ACRES, about six miles south of the Pennsylvania Central Railroad at Bolivar Station. FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, May 25, 1868.

Gold was very firm to-day, with an upward tendency. The continued heavy shipments are draining the country of specie, and in the absence of any commercial bills in the market, shipments of specie have to be made to cover drafts. The high quotations of bonds here will no longer permit to ship to Europe with any profit. However, should the premium on gold go above 140, a large amount of gold would come into market heretofore hoarded. Imports of dry goods have been heavy recently, and payments have to be made for them before our harvest is ready for export; this, together with the general stagnation of business, will keep people watching closely anything that may tend to advance gold.

Government bonds advanced again ¼ per cent. to-day for all old issues, and 1867's were even ½ per cent. above Saturday's quotations. The investment demand for bonds has entirely ceased, and more offers to sell are made by parties who wish to realize or expect to buy cheaper at a future day. The demand runs chiefly for 1865 and 1867 bonds, being used for conversion of Seven Thirties, otherwise no inquiry is made from purchasers. High as the premium may be for bonds, the ease of the money market may carry them up higher, since money is seeking investment on call at 3 per cent. per annum.

Stocks are higher, and a general improvement of the entire stock list has taken place. Fort Wayne, Cleveland, North Western, Rock Island, New York Central and Erie are up about ½ to ¾ per cent. Express stocks are weak and lower. The excessive stealings have deprived most of these companies of their surplus and earnings, and, although stocks are low now, people are afraid to risk much; the stock being generally held by cliques of railroad managers.

In local stocks some little inquiry was made for Columbia and Triumph oil and some Valley bonds, but quotations given cannot be relied upon.

Money is very scarce at from 8 to 10 per cent.; 12 per cent. is the ruling rate for any outside paper not strictly bankable. Business seems to improve a little.

Closing quotations as received by Ph. R. Mertz, were as follows:

Gold, 140; 1881 bonds, 115¼; 1862 5-20s, 110½; 1864 do, 108¾; 1865 do, 108⅞; Consols, 110¾; 10-40s, 105¾; 7-30s, 108¾.

ALLEGHENY CATTLE MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, May 25, 1865.

CATTLE.

The supply of cattle was unusually large this week, reaching in the aggregate, over six hundred head, but with a good demand, several car loads having been sold to go east, the market was a good one, and prices were very well sustained. As we stated in our last report, these yards want from 700 to 800 head of cattle per week, and to-day we have every reason to believe one thousand head could have been disposed of. There was a large number of stock buyers in attendance, many of whom did not get a single bullock, owing to the fact that there were but very few stock cattle in market; it is probable that farmers and stock growers alone would take from one hundred and fifty to two hundred head per week. As we stated last week, we now reiterate, and advise all who have stock which they contemplate selling to bring it forward, and that, too, as soon as possible, as there are plenty of buyers now, and the markets all over the country have ruled in favor of sellers for several months. How long this will continue is is difficult to determine, though the general impression is that there will be a marked decline within the next sixty days. Prime fat cattle sold to-day at from 9 to 9¾c, and medium at 8c to 8½c. Stock cattle may be quoted at 5½ to 6½c. Fresh cows sold at from $50 to $80 per head. We are quoted the following sales:

Quick wholesaled 18 head of good Iowa steers to McAllister at 8½.

R. O. Campbell wholesaled 18 head of fairish Ohio cattle to Reeder at 8¼.

N. Carr retailed 18 head Chicago cattle for Dolan & Co. at 8 to 8¾.

Hously & Wernz retailed one car load of Ohio cattle, but we did not get prices.

L. Rothchilds sold 5 head of extra Chicago steers to F. Beilsteine at 9¾; and 17 head at 8 to 8¾.

Kraus & Haas, 50 head Chicago steers at 8¾ to 9¾.

L. Keefer, 18 head Chicago steers at 7½ to 9¼.

Hedges & Taylor, 54 head Chicago steers at 8½ to 9¼.

Dolan & Co., 18 head Chicago steers at 8 to 9.

McAllister & Co., 28 head Iowa steers at 8¾ to 9½.

Hartman & Shamberg, 32 head Chicago steers at 8,40 to 9,25.

M. Verner, 24 head Chicago steers at 8,40 to 9,60.

Myers & Needy, 75 head Chicago steers at 8¾ to 9¼.

Greenwald & Kahn, 70 head Chicago steers at 8½ to 9¼.

Hazlewood & Blackstock, 18 head Chicago steers at 8½ to 9¼; 32 head of prime Cherokee, Texas cattle, unsold when we left the yards; held at 8½.

Marks & Traurman 76 head Chicago steers at 8½ to 9¾.

Holmes, Lafferty & Co. 54 head Chicago steers at 7¾ to 9¼; 16 head left over.

Shanamental & Flinner sold one pair of very fine Butler county steers, the two weighing 3,440 pounds, to Fred. Beilsteine at 11.

John McAllister bought 7 head bulls from Marks & Traurman for W. Hines at 7.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

There was a very fair supply of Sheep to-day, but they were mostly of an inferior quality, and, as a consequence, while prime fat Sheep sold readily at full prices, common and inferior were very dull, and, if anything, lower than last week. Lambs were in good supply, but there seemed to be a demand fully equal to it, and prices were pretty well maintained, ranging from $2 to $3,50 and $4 per head. It seems evident that butchers are buying more Sheep and less Cattle, from which it is fair to infer that people are buying more mutton and less beef. We are quoted the following sales:

Rynn & Co. sold 25 head of extra Sheep, averaging 110 lbs, at 8; 20 head at 7½, and 18 at 7.

Shanamental & Flinner sold 40 head Butler county Lambs and Sheep at $3,50 per head for the former, and $6 for the latter.

Adam Eckert reports 74 head Penna. Sheep at 4 to 6¼.

Aull & Myers had 164 head on sale, but when we left the yards they were nearly all unsold.

J. Walter sold 22 head at $3 to $4 for Sheep, and $2 to $3 for Lambs.

Jacob Emmill sold 35 head of Butler county Lambs at $2 to 3$ per head, and 15 wooled Sheep at $4,50.

Garwin & Co. had 115 head; sold Sheep at from $2,50 to $5 per head, and Lambs at $2 to $3,50.

Beeler reports 59 head Butler county Lambs at $2 to $3,50 per head.

Martin Humes reports 80 head Sheep and Lambs, at an average of $3,50 per head for Sheep, and $2 to $3 for Lambe.

Stakely & Bro. sold 41 head good wooled Sheep at 6½c per lb.

McMillan & Kerr report 104 head Washington county Sheep at 4½ to 6¾.

Emerick & Co. report 98 head Penna Sheep at 5 to 6½.

HOGS.

The demand for this class of stock continues light, being restricted entirely to supplying the immediate wants of the retail trade; there was but a single wholesale operation reported, Wernz & Hously sold 1 car load to Rotchilds & Byers at 9¾ or 9½, we cannot say which. In a retail way quotations may be fairly given at 9 to 11, as to quality and condition.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, May 25, 1868.

CRUDE—The crude market was devoid of life or animation, the sales all told only reaching 140 bbls, which, comparatively speaking, amounts to nothing. It is true, the arrivals are light and the offerings are limited, but the excitement which prevailed last week has subsided pretty well, and there seems to be no disposition manifested to do anything on the part of either buyer or seller. We continue to quote spot oil at 10½c offered, and 11c asked, with sales of two lots of 70 bbls each at 10½c, bbls returned. An Oil City telegram quotes at $3,65 to $3,70 on creek, and $3,90 to $4 at that point.

REFINED—There was but a single operation in bonded oil to-day, at least, there was but one reported, 500 bbls each month, running from July to October at 31c. Spot oil, as well as the first half of June, may be quoted at 28½ to 29c, while all July, buyer's option, and the last half of June, same option, may be quoted at 30c. The market was exceedingly quiet to-day, and operators, generally, reported it very dull.

ARRIVALS—The arrivals of oil reported to-day were as follows:

Jas. Wilkins	54	Mawhinney & E.	70
W. McCutch'n	355	Fisher & Bro.	3506
Total			3970

Chase and his Abortive Intrigues.

Washington specials have the following specific statements concerning the efforts of Judge Chase to retain the influence with the colored voters of the South, which he has now deservedly lost. A dispatch to the Philadelphia Press says:

Mr. Chase has been recently exerting himself to influence the opinions of leading colored men and affect their fealty to the Republican party. Some days since the Annual Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church was in session here. Five bishops and a large number of clergymen were present. Among these were were many of the most influential men of their race in the reconstructed States. One presiding elder of the Southern States has, since the campaign began there in April 1867, done enormous work in organizing the Republican party, making hundreds of speeches and organizing League councils by the score. Another one edits a spirited Radical weekly. Mr. Chase has hitherto been regarded by such persons as their great mentor. With many of them he has personally advised hitherto. Of course, on coming here they paid their respects as usual. It is now known that the discontent felt by Mr. Chase he has forced systematically upon these men. One of them asked his advice to the convention appointing an hour of prayer with regard to impeachment. Mr. Chase was vehement in expressing indignation at the idea. He has stated to a number of leading men of color among others to Rev. H. M. Turner and Rev. Mr. Simms, of Georgia, and Rev. Mr. Givens, of North Carolina, that the Republican party had betrayed the Northern colored men, that the Democracy was willing to adopt a platform of "universal suffrage and universal amnesty," and that such a platform would meet his approbation. He advised his colored friends to leave the Republican organization. One or two of them have been affected by this talk; the others were indignant at this exhibition of Mr. Chase's treachery.

A dispatch to the New York Tribune says: "It is said this evening that the notion of starting the third party has not been utterly abandoned. Certain gentlemen interested in its success and in the defeat of General Grant are attempting to influence and change the opinions of some of the colored clergymen who are here from the South attending the Methodist Episcopal Conference. An agent of the third party made approaches to-day to several of the most prominent men in this Convention. He told them that the Chicago platform is a virtual abandonment of the colored people; that Gen. Grant is not a Radical, and that they can expect nothing at his hands. Tempting promises were made to these gentlemen, but thus far without success. The colored people in this city have the utmost confidence in the nominees of the Chicago Convention, and will vote solid for Grant and Colfax."

The Albany Evening Journal says:

But when the Chief Justice says that he is "not a candidate," the joke is carried rather too far. Everybody who has watched his course since he first entered the Cabinet of Mr. Lincoln, knows that Chase is a Presidency hunter. It was by his intrigues for the succession that he forfeited his position in the Treasury Department. It was to put him in a position where self-respect might restrain him from such manipulations, that he was made Chief Justice. But the dignity of the Judge has been forgotten in the ambition of the politician. By his speeches upon the stump, by artful appliances to powerful factions, by coalitions with cliques and cabals, and finally by a disreputable conspiracy with Andrew Johnson, Mr. Chase has done his utmost to put himself in line for the candidacy. It he does not secure a nomination, it will not be for want of effort upon his own part.

Another dispatch says:

Mr. Chase is working hard to get up a third party. He has told a person very recently that he believes the Democratic party is ready to take up the banner of universal suffrage and universal amnesty and carry it through to victory.

The Cincinnati Chronicle says: Both candidates are in the very prime of active life. Grant is proudly known in our State as a native Buckeye. Colfax had his birth in New York. Both are Western by citizenship, but the fame of both belongs to the nation. Let us enter earnestly upon the work of electing them to the high places for which they are nominated, and God speed the right.

The Western River Bridge Question.

The memorial to Congress, from members of the Ohio Legislature who oppose short-span bridges, has already been alluded to. We annex its text:

To the honorable members of the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States, in Congress assembled:

The undersigned members of the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, deeply impressed with the incalculable importance to the people of this State, as well as to the people of the entire Ohio and Mississippi Valley, of a free and unobstructed navigation of the Ohio river; and from careful examination being fully satisfied that such navigation will be seriously and dangerously obstructed by the erection of bridges across said river having a less span across the main channel than five hundred feet, and that such length of span may be built in a manner perfectly safe for all purposes of travel, do most earnestly pray that such legislation may be had by Congress as shall prevent the construction of bridges hereafter across said river having a less span across the main channel thereof than five hundred feet.

Captain A. Q. Ross, now in Washington, writes as follows in regard to bridge matters:

I do not see that any sufficient reason can be urged against the reasonable demands of the Chamber of Commerce and the people in relation to bridging navigable rivers; and permit me to to say for the encouragement of our friends, that I feel confident they will be acceded to. I am much encouraged, also, by the temper of members of Congress and others (disinterested) with whom I have had conversations upon this subject. Go forward energetically with the work so well begun. That a clear span of five hundred feet can be adopted with safety, there is no doubt. The Niagara Falls suspension bridge has a clear span of eight hundred feet, and has been safely operated for many years, not a single accident occurring in consequence of the great length of span.

The Hudson Highland Suspension Bridge, to be constructed across the Hudson river, will have a clear span of 1,600 feet, and will bear a load of 5,285 tons, 25,171 tons being required to break it. The structure now in course of erection at St. Louis will have a clear span in the center of 515 feet, and two side spans of 497 feet each, and nobody now presumes to urge that either of these bridges will be unsafe in consequence of the length of span. * * * At St. Louis, the plan adopted is exactly in keeping with the enlightened breadth of Western intellect and character. Although a convention of so-called engineers assembled at that city in 1867, and reported adversely to the broad span, the company and the people rejected their report, and adopted a breadth of span greater than the maximum required by the statute. The enlightened public spirit and exalted taste of the people of that great metropolis of the West would not brook a contracted and contemptible bridge structure to mar the magnificence and obstruct the free navigation of the great Father of Waters.

THE GOLCONDA, a first-class ship, owned by the American Colonization Society, sailed on May 14th, from Savannah, with 451 colored emigrants for Liberia. Most of the men are farmers and mechanics, and are well supplied with agricultural implements and tools. Turning lathes and the requisite machinery for grist and saw mills, for which ample water power abounds in Liberia, were taken by some of the well-to-do of them. Sewing machines were not forgotten by the women. Free transportation in the ship was given them by the Society, and such articles tending to promote the success of the emigrants and the Republic to which they go. A fair proportion of the company can read, and some can read and write. The communicants of churches are remarkably numerous. There are five licensed ministers of the Baptist and Methodist denominations. Emigration to Liberia is on the increase among people of color, and would be much larger if the Colonization Society had the means to assist those persons who are desirous of removing to the flourishing little Republic in Africa.

A CHICAGO telegram to the Press says: Not a whisper of complaint is heard in any quarter, and the Copperheads already see the handwriting on the wall. The Great West is aflame with emthusiasm, and all heretofore Republican States will increase their majorites in November. Southern Unionists are as ardent and enthusiastic for Grant and Colfax as their brethern of the North, and the friends of Curtin, Wade, Wilson and Fenton vie with the friends of Colfax in support of the ticket. We have passed the dead point of danger, and whether Andrew Johnson is removed or retained, the great Republican party will be successful.

J. B. HARRIS' SAFETY FIRE JACKET,

Car Heater and Moderator,

For SMOKE AND HOT AIR FLUES, dispensing with the use of Stoves and Fires in or about the Passenger or Baggage Cars, with the attachment to graduate the heat to any temperature that may be desired without the possibility of firing the car or cars to which the Jacket may be attached.

Having obtained of the United States Letters Patent for a Safety Jacket which is warranted to resist the most intense heat that may be adpted to it in the position and purpose for which it is intended. It is a sure protection from accidents by fire, originating from defective flues, or where iron pipes are used as conductors for smoke or heat. It is applicable to all piping that may become overheated, and is warranted to give perfect satisfaction where wood or other combustible material may be placed in close proximity thereto. I am now ready to apply my invention to stores, dwellings, factories, ships, steamboats, railroad cars, &c., wherever pipes as conductors are made dangerous by being overheated and security desired. I will sell, on application, rights to manufacture or to use the above invention; also, territorial rights, to such as may wish to engage in selling privileges, either by State or county.

General Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church.

FIFTH DAY—MORNING SESSION.

Synod met at half-past nine o'clock, and was organized with prayer by the Moderator. Minutes of last session read and approved.

Dr. Sterrett read the report of the Reformed Presbytery of Philadelphia. On motion, the report proper was referred to the Committee on Presbyterial Reports, and so much of it as refers to the complaint against the Second Reformed Presbytery of Philadelphia, in receiving under its care the Reformed Presbyterian Church of that city, without being regularly dismissed and the constitutional steps being taken, to the Committee on Discipline.

Dr. Steele read the report of the Second Reformed Presbytery of Philadelphia. The report proper was referred to the Committee on Presbyterial Reports, the portion which refers to the reception of the Third Reformed Presbyterian congregation, Philadelphia, to the Committee on Discipline, and that which refers to union, to lie on the table to be taken up with the other papers on the same subject.

The report of the Treasurer of Foreign Missions was read by the Assistant Clerk. Pending the consideration of this report, Synod proceeded to the devotional exercises, Rev. Dr. McMaster, presiding.

The following gentlemen took part in the devotional exercises: Revs. A. G. Wylie, Wm. Sterrett, D. D., Robert McMillan and Archibald Thompson.

Proceeded to the consideration of the Treasurer's report; it was referred to the Board of Foreign Missions.

The following paper was presented to Synod:

PITTSBURGH, May 25, 1868.

WHEREAS, George H. Stuart has for a long time been pursuing divisive courses, and whereas, he did on the 25th instant, openly and defiantly avow on the floor of General Synod that he had violated the Standards of the Church on Psalmody and Communion, and would continue to do so; therefore,

Resolved, That George H. Stuart be, and he hereby is, suspended from the eldership and membership of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, and his seat in the Synod consequently vacated. JAMES SAMPLE.

Mr. Stuart said he had sung hymns, and he hoped the matter would be decided without any delay. He charged Mr. Sample, the author of the paper, with having sung hymns.

Mr. Sample bitterly denied the charge. If he had ever violated the laws of the church he was willing to express his sorrow for it.

Mr. Stuart said there was only one man in the Synod that carried out the law of the Church.

Dr. Clarke, Mr. Bratton and others stated positively that they observed the law of the Church.

Mr. Stuart said if they would go on and exercise discipline on all who had violated the law they would have to exercise it on a great number. Dr. McLeod's congregation having been referred to, Dr. McLeod said that no hymns had been sung in his church under the sanction of the Pastor or Session. His Sabbath School was connected with the Sabbath School Union; on one occasion when the Union met in his church, hymns may have been sung in the lecture room, but those who did it were informed that hymns could not be sung in that place on the Lord's day. George H. Stuart, Esq., had endeavored to do all the injury to him and his congregation in his power. He had said in a public company that it would only take George S. Chambers and Dr. John Hall one year to drive Dr. McLeod out of New York!

Mr. Stuart denied that he had ever said any such thing.

Dr. McLeod said he was prepared to prove it.

S. B. W. McLeod, M. D., said it would seem that Mr. Stuart was intoxicated with hymn singing. He had, perhaps, met with the following hymn:

"I will be like the Pilgrim,
Knock me down,
I'll rise again and
Fight as hard as ever."

Rev. Mr. Thompson said he understood that Mr. Stuart had said there was but one honest man in the Synod.

Mr. Stuart replid that he had stated no such thing. He said he believed there was only one congregation in which members were prohibited from using hymns.

Mr. Thompson excepted the explanation.

Dr. Steele, Mr. Woodside in the chair, admitted there might be some in his congregation who occasionally sung a hymn. But no elder nor member in his congregation had declared publicly he had violated the laws of the church and would continue to do so. The two things were entirely different. It might be expected that, when some are endeavoring to break down the laws of the church some might be influenced by their pernicious example. He hurled back the statement that had been made.

Mr. Stuart denied that he had said he would openly violate the laws of the church. He had said that the singing of a hymn was not a violation of the church. Dr. Steele had preached at Cape May, the pastor of the congregation gave out the nymns, and Dr. Steele had invoked the blessing of God on the praise.

Dr. Steele said he did not ask the blessing of God on anything he did not think was a proper matter for praise; sometimes we ask amiss, he may have asked amiss, words sometimes are spoken unavoidably.

Much of the discussion of the morning was of such a character that we suppress it. We only wonder that it was tolerated. We never wish to be in the midst of such a discussion, at least in an ecclesiastical assembly, again.

Synod adjourned to meet at three o'clock in the afternoon, Dr. McAuley concluding by prayer.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Synod met at three o'clock and was opened with prayer by the Moderator. Minutes of Morning Session read and approved.

Mr. James Sample rose to a personal explanation. On the occasion to which Mr. Stuart referred there was neither hymn nor psalm sung, and he for one did not join in singing. Two elders had been received into the Brooklyn Session who said they had sung hymns, but declared that they would not violate the laws of the church, and if they changed their mind they would inform Session of the change.

Mr. Stuart rose to a personal explanation. He had introduced a matter irrelevant to the case in hand in the morning. He was goaded to it, perhaps, but he had no bad feeling toward any member of the Synod. He never referred to Mr. Chambers and Dr. Hall as about to drive Dr. McLeod from his church in New York. He had been excited, and he regretted it, and apologised for anything that he had said that was offensive.

Mr. James Stewart wished to know if it was stated that if the Northern Presbytery should refuse to ordain Mr. Chambers it would divide Dr. McLeod's congregation. He would like to know if he was referred to.

Mr. George H. Stuart said he did not refer to Mr. James Stewart.

Mr. James Stewart wished Mr. George H. Stuart to take back the statement that there were not ten men in Dr. McLeod's church that did not sing hymns.

Mr. George H. Stuart said he did not say "ten" men. He said if they would suspend him for singing hymns, they would have to suspend a large number of Dr. McLeod's church.

Mr. K. Hunter (Elder) was astounded to hear a man like George H. Stuart say on this floor that he had violated the laws of the church, or at least that he did sing hymns when he knew it was in opposition to the law of the church.

Dr. T. W. J. Wylie said Synod had persistently refused to visit censure upon those who had done the same thing that Mr. Stuart is charged with. He (Dr. W.) had sung hymns himself. He had communed in other churches. He had done the same things that Mr. Stuart had done. Dr. Wylie quoted from James Renwick on the subject of Communion.

Rev J. F. Morton wished to know what the question was before the house. They were not inquiring what the law of the Church is, but shall we carry out the law.

Rev. W. S. Bratton begged to state that the sayings of the reformers were not the laws of the Church. Let Dr. Wylie come to the law of the Reformed Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Wylie read the second term of Communion, in which there is reference to the "great principles" of the Reformation. Dr. Bratton would see then why it was he (Dr. W.) referred to the sayings of the reformers.

Dr. Wylie had a word to say on Psalmody. He did not know whether the standards of the Church allowed the use of other than the one hundred and fifty psalms or not. The action does not seem to be uniform on this subject. The resolutions passed at Xenia say first, that only one hundred and fifty psalms are to be sung, and then again that something else may be sung if duly authorized. Authorized, of course, by those who were competent to authorize.

Synod suspended business to hear Rev. Mr. Phraner, delegate from the Old School Presbyterian Assembly.

Mr. Phraner was glad to have the honor of bearing to General Synod the congratulations and fraternal regards of the Old School Presbyterian church. His church had a special sympathy with those churches that bear the Presbyterian name. They had a common history, common doctrine, and he hoped a common destiny. He deemed it unnecessary to refer to the statistics of his church. She had a larger number of ministers on her roll, and last year contributed more to religious and benevolent causes than she had ever done in any previous year of her history. Your Church and mine are one in sympathy and doctrine. It is devoutly to be wished that a union may take place among the different Presbyterian bodies, Whether the union shall take place or not, we soon shall be one—eternally one—one with our common Master forever more.

On motion of Dr. Douglas, seconded by Rev. Thos. Johnston,

Resolved, That Synod have heard with great pleasure the address of the respected delegate, and cordially reciprocate the fraternal sentiments expressed.

Dr. Steele, the Moderator, conveyed the fraternal greetings of the Synod to the delegate and through him to the church he represented. We are one, Sir, in doctrine. It is to be hoped that it shall soon be demonstrated that the orthodoxy we hold is immortal. It can scarcely be expected that our differences can be removed in a day. But whether organic union shall take place or not, the church is essentially one.

Synod then engaged in devotional exercises, Rev. Theophilus Wylie, D. D. LL. D., in the Chair. The following gentlemen led in the devotional exercises: Rev. W. S. Bratton, Rev. Mr. Phraner, Dr. William Wilson and Elder James C. McMillan.

On motion of Dr. Douglas, Synod agreed to hear Rev. G. C. Vincent, D. D., delegate from the United Presbyterian Assembly, to-morrow morning.

The resolution contemplating the suspension of Mr. Stuart was read.

Rev. J. F. Morton asked if it was proper under that resolution to discuss what the standards of the church are?

Dr. Wylie resumed the discussion. He believed if this church prohibits any thing that Christ has authorized, he had a right to do as his convictions dictated. He did not wish to be misunderstood. He did not think it would be right for him to go into a pulpit of the Reformed Presbyterian Church and use anything not authorized by the Synod. He thought something had been put on the Reformed Presbyterian Church she would be better without. Laws in course of time become obsolete. He illustrated by the case of the old Scotch school-masters who, if they vacated their school on certain days, they were suspended. Laws on Psalmody and Communion are becoming a dead letter very fast. He read two portions from the Bible illustrating the case in hand. The first was from 1 Sam. 14, 43: "Jonathan told him, and said, I did but taste a little honey with the end of the rod that was in mine hand, and, lo, I must die." The second portion was from the Acts of the Apostles referring to Peter's vision of the sheet let down from heaven.

Mr. Alexr. Kerr (elder) was rejoiced that this subject had been brought up. He believed that every time he sang a hymn he was violating his vow. Mr. Kerr read the law of the church and said if it did not exclude the use of hymns he did not understand the English language. He hoped the church would give a decisive answer. He did not believe the use of the psalms would drive off the young as Dr. Wylie said it would. If proper action had been taken eighteen years ago, we would not be here wrangling to-day.

Synod adjourned to meet in the evening at half past seven o'clock, Rev. Mr. Phraner concluding by prayer.

EVENING SESSION.

Synod met at half-past seven and was opened with prayer by the Moderator.

Minutes read and approved.

The Committee on the Records of the Philadelphia Presbytery reported that they had been "correctly and beautifully printed."

Dr. Clark said when he went first to Nova Scotia there was only one psalm book—the one he had himself—in the congregation he addressed. He had taken a number of psalm books with him when he went to preach in the Methodist churches. He did not consider the practice "mean and contemptible." They had no psalm books when he went there first. There are thousands there now. He would not watch a man's lips to bring a charge against him, but he would not do violence to the law by his own church.

Rev. Samuel Wylie had heard with pleasure the father who had taken his seat. Dr. Clarke had come from the east—the rising sun—he came from the west—the setting sun. He went to Illinois when there were only forty thousand people in the territory. They had no psalm books when he went there. He had never used anything but the psalms of David. But there should be forbearance in the matter where ministers and elders are outside the Reformed Presbyterian Church. He did not believe they should be suspended. He believed a man, in some instances, might sing a hymn as consciously as an old psalm.

Rev. W. S. Bratton said our omission to execute the law formerly is no reason why it should not now be enforced. It was stated in the afternoon that the law was becoming a "dead letter very fast"—the law was becoming "obsolete." They should prevent it from becoming obsolete.

Rev. J. H. Cooper thought the paper was to test the law, but as it is worded it does not convey its own idea. The form in which the paper reads does not test the law. It is not to be tested by a thrust at a person. The accusation and the sentence do not correspond. The man's moral character is involved.

Rev. John McMaster, D. D., said the matter before us is a matter of life or death with us. We must vindicate the law or our Church will go to pieces. It does not concern us what was done in the First or Second Reformation. He read from the Testimony of the Church, Chap. 22 Sec. 4. "The Christian Church as a society of rational beings, must have explicit terms of communion, to which every member gives his assent. It is not to be expected that all men shall think alike about every object of thought; but Christians cannot co-operate, unless they are of one mind about the general principles of Christianity. Terms of Christian Communion should embrace nothing but which is divine truth and reject nothing for which the church hath faithfully contended." He also read the article on psalmody: "The book of Psalms, which is of divine inspiration, is well adapted to the state of the church, and of every member, in all ages and circumstances; and these Psalms to the exclusion of all initiations and uninspired compositions, are to be used in the social worships."

These testimonies, he said, had been upheld until within a short period. He was glad to hear from the delegate from the Old School Assembly, that addressed Synod in the afternoon, that there was a disposition in many parts of his Church to return to worship on the "old brazen altar"—to return to the good old Scripture psalms. Dr. McMaster spoke at great length, but we are unable to give anything like an outline of it. He concluded by reading a specimen of the Sabbath School hymnology of the present day, which has been denounced by the New York Observer, from which he would read as follows:

"I know a girl with teeth of pearl
And shoulders white as snow.
She lives -ah! well I must not tell,
But wouldn't you like to know?"

"This is a sacred song! Sacred to what, we would like to know." "But this," says the Observer, "is all of a piece with the 'religious buffoonery' of which we have seen so much of late."

Dr. Steele (Mr. Woodside in the chair) gave a history of the Church in her relation to psalmody. The first subject that engaged the attention of the Westminster Assembly was Psalmody. It was decided that psalms should be the matter of the Church's praise. That is the position of the Church of Scotland as she appeared through her Commissioners in the Westminster Assembly. Dr. Steele continued at great length. At the conclusion of his speech a catechetical debate took place between him and Geo. H. Stuart, each party we suppose being fully satisfied that he was the victor.

At half past ten o'clock Synod adjourned to meet at half-past nine this morning, Dr. Theophilus Wylie concluding by prayer.

THE COURTS.

United States District Court—Judge McCandless.

The case of the United States vs. Jackson E. Rouch, indicted for having in his possession counterfeit United States obligations, with intent to utter, publish and sell the same, was resumed. Gen. F. H. Collier, of counsel for the defendant, concluded his argument, commenced on Saturday, and was followed by Hon. P. C. Shannon, also for the defense, who occupied an hour and a half in a most earnest and eloquent effort. R. B. Carnahan, Esq., District Attorney, made the closing argument. He spoke less than an hour and in that time presented the law and the strong points of the case very clearly, fully answering the arguments of the defense. When he had concluded the jury were dismissed until ten o'clock this morning, when the Court will charge them.

District Court—Judge Williams.

James Gordon and others vs. the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. This was an action in ejectment for a certain piece of property in the Fifth ward. The jury was subsequently withdrawn, and the case stated for the opinion of the Court.

A. J. Marks vs. the Borough of Lawrenceville. This was an action to recover three hundred dollars bounty, offered by the borough authorities, in 1864, for volunteers. The plaintiff was drafted and put a substitute into the service and crediing him to the quota of the borough. The bounty money was not paid and the action was brought to recover the amount. On trial.

Common Pleas—Judge Mellon.

John Beckfield vs. Charles P. Whiston. This was an action to recover damages for trespass, in closing up an alley in the Third ward, Allegheny, through which plaintiff claimed an easement to his property abutting on Sandusky street. On trial.

Police News.

The following came up before Justice Ammon, of East Birmingham:

Ludwig Minehart made information charging John Agnew with assault and battery. The accused was arrested and held for a hearing.

John Agnew made information charging Ludwig Minehart with the larceny of twenty-five cents worth of iron. The accused was held for a hearing.

Christ Eidenmiller charged Samuel Kearney with obtaining goods under false pretence. The prosecutor is a grocer on the Brownsville Pike, in Baldwin township. The accused was arrested and the case settled.

Richard Keinzle made information, charging Michael Hogle and Casper Roehrs, saloon keepers in Lower St. Clair township, with selling liquor on Sunday. Warrants were issued for their arrest.

John Lehner made information against James Rabe, charging him with disorderly conduct. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

John Stein charged Peter Spicker, John Spicker and John Wolf with assault and battery. He alleges that they laid in wait for him and beat him in a brutal manner. Warrants were issued for their arrest.

The following cases were before Alderman Taylor:

Robert Reed, charged on oath of Lotta Grimes, with assault with intent to commit rape, was arrested and held for a hearing.

John Schibler made information charging Henry and James Fox with assault and battery. Warrants were issued for their arrest.

The following was before Alderman McMasters:

Joseph Patterson, charged on oath of Thomas Quigley with forcible entry and detainer, was arrested and held for a hearing.

Terrible Accident.

Yesterday afternoon a young German named Jacob Oppenheimer, employed at Oppenheimer's wholesale clothing house, Wood street, fell out of the fourth story window of the building in the rear to the pavement of the area, a distance of sixty feet. He was instantly killed, breaking his neck and thoroughly crushing his body. No one witnessed the accident, and the discovery of his lifeless remains in the area was the first intimation had of the fall. It is presumed he was washing the windows and missing his footing, fell to the ground. He was a worthy and industrious lad, aged fifteen years and has been in the country but a few weeks. Alderman Humbert, in the absence of Coroner Clawson, held an inquest on the body.

"NATIVISM FORSAKEN.

"'Aliena optimum frui insania.'

"All who know me are aware that I have heretofore advocated the principles of 'Nativism' publicly; therefore, I consider it due to myself, to my former political associates, and my friends and enemies generally, to give my reasons publicly for withdrawing myself from the Native party. It is now about a year since I came to the conclusion that 'Nativism' was wrong, in spirit, unwise and anti-Democratic in theory, and would be extremely unjust in its practical operation. Once convinced of this, I abandoned its principles; believing there is no one so foolish and stupid as he that persists in a course after he is satisfied of its error. I must confess that I embarked in the Native cause without a due and careful examination of the subject in all its bearings and applicability, to a people so peculiarly circumstanced as those of the United States.

"I found on a careful examination that the very men I had been in the habit of condemning, were as intelligent, as honest and as industrious, and as purely Republican as those who opposed them. I also found that when I was in company of intelligent adopted-citizens I was ashamed (Experto crede) of my politics.

"In view of this, ought not a free-born American to hide his head and blush that he would advocate principles so proscriptive as Americanism?

"What have we to fear for freedom when we find the Pope, the head of the Church, foremost in the great reforms that have shaken European despotism to its very centre? What have we to fear, while Pius IX, by both Protestant and Catholic, is hailed as the Liberator of Europe?

"Why should we fear when our own history informs us that the Catholic colony of Maryland, under Lord Baltimore, was the first to proclaim religious liberty in America.

"Religion is employed by the cruel policy of England to effect her purpose. She gives one portion a butter-horn to lick, while she robs the rest.

"Are the Catholics faithful to our flag? Our army in Mexico has testified to their fidelity and bravery.

"If the Catholic Church, in any period of her history, has abused her power, what has the Church of England in Great Britain, the Presbyterians in Scotland, the Lutherans in Sweden and Norway, the Puritans in New England, the Episcopalians in Virginia?

"During the past year I have voted with the Democratic party, believing the principles of that party to be in accordance with the progressive spirit of the age. If the public are satisfied with this statement, I am, and if not, I am, for I have satisfied my own conscience. 'Satis superque.'

A Big Casting.

Yesterday afternoon, at about three o'clock, a very heavy casting was made at the foundry of Messrs. Bollman, Boyd & Bagaley. It was a chilled iron roll, five feet long in the body and twenty-eight inches in diameter. The sight, as the molten iron ran into the moulds filling the air with sparks, was a beautiful one. The whole weight of the roll, when finished, will be something near eight and a half tons. It is the second of a pair, the first of which was cast last week and which are the largest chill rolls ever cast, we believe, in this or any other country. These rolls are to be shipped to Alex. C. Jerdan, of the Jersey City Plate Works, where they will be used for rolling copper. It is an excellent evidence of the enterprise of Pittsburgh founders, and of the superiority of their work, when they receive orders from manufactories which are so much nearer to the large eastern foundries. We noticed while waiting for the casting to take place, heavy iron castings lying about ready for shipment to Richmond, and as far north as Milwaukee, which were only further evidence of the high repute of Pittsburgh foundings.

MESSRS. EDITORS: The contest for District Attorney, up to this time, has been very exciting between the two candidates, but the people have not yet concluded to take either of them, and it is not improbable that one of the other candidates may be selected by the Convention.

The friends of R. B. Parkinson, Esq., are working quietly yet determinedly, and are confident that at the proper time they will exhibit a degree of strength not expected by some not fully posted. He is presented by his friends upon the same grounds and for the same reasons urged in favor of the other candidates: legal ability, experience and military services to his country. He claims nothing himself for having served his country, but his friends see proper to do so for him. They claim for him all that can be claimed for any yet named for the office, and intend to contend warmly for his success. They will do so without underrating or disparaging the other candidates, any one of whom would doubtless fill the office they seek with ability.

Weed Sewing Machine Prize Medal.

It will be seen by the official notice in another column that the Department of State at Washington has received the silver medal and diploma awarded the Weed Sewing Machine Company of this city at the Paris Exposition of 1867. This medal is the first in the official publication of awards made to American sewing machines, independent of extra attachments. Hartford may well be proud of the position attained by the Weed Sewing Machine. Its success is unparalleled. The company are now selling nearly a thousand machines a month—the actual sales last month amounted to 923, which is a large increase over last year.—Hartford Daily Courant.

The Merchants and Manufacturers

Of the West have long felt the necessity of a complete, reliable and comprehensive Business Register of the great West. W. J. Divine, of New York, has undertaken the difficult task of bringing before the business community, as near as possible, a complete work. The book will be a complete register of the following cities: Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Columbus, Louisville, Milwaukee, Memphis, Indianapolis, Detroit, Toledo and Nashville; also a register of the principal Merchants and Manufacturers of New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore. The authorized agents are in the city and have commenced the canvass. We hope our Merchants will offer their assistance by giving necessary information for this work, as it is no small undertaking, and thus supply the great demand for a book of this kind. There is also in the advertising department a limited amount of pages for first class houses having business interests in the above mentioned cities.

The Evening Mail delivered by carriers in all parts of the city for six cents per week.

Official.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, May 9th, 1868.—To the Weed Sewing Machine Company, Hartford, Connecticut.—Sirs: The Department has received the Silver Medal and Diploma, awarded to your Company on Sewing Machines, at the Paris Universal Exposition of 1867.

Your obedient servant,
WILLIAM H. SEWARD.

The above medal is the first in the official publication of awards made to American Sewing Machines, independent of extra attachments. Weed Sewing Machine Company, 239 Main street, Hartford, Connecticut. Pittsburgh office, 112 Grant street.

Read the Evening Mail, a spicy, gossippy afternoon paper. Out on Saturday.

We earnestly advise our readers to call and examine Singer's new noiseless family Sewing Machine, whether desiring to purchase or not. It is very remarkable for its quietness, speed, lightness of running, ease of management and simplicity and perfection of construction. It is entirely different from Singer's old machine.

The tension is really self-adjusting and the feed is so perfect that the operator does not have to hold the goods stretched to prevent puckering, even when sewing a single thickness of Swiss or Nainsook

The hemmer is a marvel of perfection, making any width of hem, and felling, in the most beautiful manner, requiring as little skill to manage it as is required to sew a straight seam on any other machine.

Prices and terms to suit all. Straw & Morton, No. 40 St. Clair street, corner of Penn, are the general agents.

It will be seen by an advertisement elsewhere that the Young Men's Christian Association have determined to continue the 12 o'clock prayer meetings during the summer months as usual, at the Methodist Church, next door to the GAZETTE office. The public at large are cordially invited to attend these meetings, which will doubtless continue, as heretofore, very interesting, edifying and useful, and that the many yonng ladies and gentlemen wh have attended these religious assemblage will use their influence to bring others join them in these exercises of daily praye and meditation.

The Evening Mail will succeed the Evening Advocate on Saturday next.

Suburban Residence.—Thursday, May 28th, at one o'clock P. M., on the premises, at Laughlin station, on the Connellsville Railroad, will be sold by auction that very desirable two story (new) brick house, containing eight large and comfortable rooms, together with three acres of ground, within three minutes walk of the station. This is indeed a rare chance to purchase a home. See advertisement of Smithson, Vanhook & McClelland.

Auditing Committee Appointed.—At the request of the chairman, Mr. E. T. Cook, Mayor Blackmore this morning appointed a committee, consisting of Wm. R. Brown, J. P. Pears, and Samuel Rea, to audit the accounts of the Distributing Committee of the funds raised for the benefit of the sufferers from the terrible explosion of Messrs. Rees, Graff & Dull's mill.

Erratum.—Yesterday, in the list of published officers of the Allegheny Prison Association, the name of Mr. J. D. Carlisle was printed as Vice President instead of that of Rev. J B. Clark.. Mr. Carlisle was elected Treasurer, as stated in same item.

Republican Voters.—The attention of the Republican voters is called to the Executive Committee's card in to-day's paper, giving the time of voting and how the same shall be done. Be careful to note what wards and districts yote by ballot and by marking.

It is now thought that the Committee having charge of the Soldier's Monument fund will rescind their choice of design and select instead of marble a bronze monument, after the model of Broome, the sculptor.

Removing the Dead.—Parties interested in removing the dead from the Methodist burying ground in the Seventh ward should attend the meeting this evening, to be held at the Seventh Ward School House, at 7½ o'clock.

The body of Peter Brady, who was recently drowned at St. Louis, was recovered at that city, and Chief of Police Green has been notified that it will at once be forwarded to Pittsburgh.

Rich and Racy—the Evening Mail. Campbell & Young, Proprietors.

To Merchants and Milliners.—For every thing you want in the trimmings line we refer you to Joseph Horne & Co.'s advertisement on fifth page. 22:6t.

Stolen Vouchers.—Attention is called to the advertisement in to-day's paper of Stolen Vouchers, belonging to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

The tombs last night were respectfully filled at an early hour. A large female delegation was brought in from Fort Maloney.

It is proposed to widen the Fifth street pavements above Smithfield. There is hardly any necessity for the improvement.

The laying of the Nicholson blocks will commence on Fifth street on Saturday.

Brimful of local and telegraphic news—the Evening Mail.

—At a meeting of the American Baptist Publication Society, in New York, yesterday, the annual report of the Treasurer was submitted showing the receipts to be $34,612, a large increase on last year. Branch houses are to be established in St. Louis and New York the present summer. The work of the Society is large and highly productive. Over two hundred million pages of tracts were distributed, two hundred and fifty-seven Sunday Schools organized, fifty-nine churches constituted and fifty-nine new publications issued.

Resolves of Radical Editors.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, May 25,—A meeting of radical editors of this State, was held on Friday and Saturday last. A resolutions was passed, declaring advocate these principles and which they believe to be for good irrespective of any man, se any party, and strive to act as t of parties and politicians lagging behind them; that t no principles should be advoc people are prepared for it, as refuse to go into the water learned to swim, is not fit f independent editors, but onl cowardly class of politicians tial suffrage is the necessar of the fundamental idea of ment, viz: That the w govern more wisely than class, or caste. That best sense expedie lifts to personal ind for responsibility and t who must otherwise peons, and that it is right, all who faithfully support a government are entitled to protection through the ballot against injustice. That the prejudice of color, which denies a just equality of civil and political rights, is the main obstacle to a safe reconstruction, the source of a thousand forms of injustice and intollerance, the blot upon our nation, and the fruitful soil from which Democratic votes are spontaneously produced; it is, therefore, the duty of every radical editor to labor to break down that prejudice, at once the shame and peril of the Republic. That as editors we will strive to influence the Radical party to give open and vigorous support to impartial suffrage and to secure the adoption of the Constitutional amendment now pending. That the national honor is the veryt soul of national being, since without credi the existence of the nation cannot be maintained, and it is therefore our duty, while seeking in behalf of these people every relief from taxation which can be honestly obtained to resist sternly every form of repudiation. That in the advocacy of our principles we will strive to observe the maxim, inessential unity, non-essential freedom. We will not denounce as traitors men who may differ from us in any detail of policy, nor read out of the party men whose attachment to its principles may be as sincere as our own, though upon suffrage or other questions they think a different policy expedient. That those who deliberately betray those principles, whether in the White House, Senate or elsewhere, shall receive from us no countenance or support for any position of trust or influence; but putting the brand of treachery upon them, we will warn all men that they are not to be trusted. The man who sells his principles, or sacrifices for ambition, revenge, or gain, the party upon which the safety of the nation depends, deserves only the scorn which decent soldiers and honest men give to the scoundrel who surrenders for an enemy's gold the fortress of his country. That we heartily approve the nominations made and the platform adopted by the National Republican Convention at Chicago, and will labor to swell the glorious triumph which such a platform and such candidates insure.

—The statue of Hon. Thomas Hart Benton will be unveiled at St. Louis to-morrow. The Mayor of the city has issued a proclamation recommending the suspension of all public business on the occasion.
